Firemen Get 4 Other Calls

In addition to the call to the Huber plant, city firemen answered four alarms yesterday afternoon and evening, including a call for inhalator treatment, a false alarm, a smoking coal stove, and a chimney fire.

Two firemen from Central station answered a call to the home of Mrs. Grace Thacker of 283 Niles street at 7:55 p. m. last night, prepared to give inhalator treatment to Mrs. Thacker, but found her dead upon their arrival. Mrs. Thacker was stricken with a heart ailment, Fire Chief Owen Sifritt said. The call for the inhalator was made by one of several grandchildren who live at the Niles street address.

At 6:10 p. m. a fire in the chimney of a vacant house located on Crissinger road, just across the township line in Pleasant township, was extinguished by firemen from West Center street station. They were on the call for 45 minutes. The blaze started when H. S. Rider, owner of the house, built a fire in the furnace before cleaning the chimney. The call was made by Mrs. John W Salisbury of the Green Camp Pike.

Firemen were called to the Hamilton apartment building at 131 and 133 North State street at 7:55 p. m. by Mrs. Hilda Comrens, who reported the building was full of smoke. Mark street station firemen answered the call and found that a coal stove on the first floor was smoking, and the smoke was filtering up into the above apartments. The stove is located in the auto license bureau office.

At 1:40 a. m. today firemen from West Center and Central stations were called out on a false alarm to Pies avenue. An unidentified person set off the alarm box at the corner of Bennett and Waterloo streets when he thought he saw a fire in a bedroom at a Pies avenue address.

ARMY PLANE CRASH KILLS 5

Rescue Party Presses Into Ozark Mountains To Remove Bodies.

By The Associated Press

JASPER, Ark., Feb. 7—Arkansas state police and sheriff's deputies toiled through the night to reach the scene of a plane crash in the rugged, sleet-covered Ozark mountains near here.

The plane a B-25 from Wright Field, O., flew into a bluff and burst into flames last night. Wright Field said five men were aboard. No survivors have been found.

Public relations officers at Wright Field listed the four Army men aboard as "missing" and identified them as:

First Lt. Phillip Novick, the pilot, 27, Brooklyn, N. Y.

First Lt. Charles W. Thomas, co-pilot, 26, Zepher Hills, Fla.

First Lt. Felton F. Roberson 27, a Little Rock native; wife Mrs. Jean Roberson of Osborne, O.

M. Sgt. George L. Hatjes, 28, Canton, O., native; wife, Mrs. Ann Hatjes of Dayton, O.

Wright Field said the fifth man aboard was a sailor based at Oakland, Calif., who "hitchhiked" a ride. Army PRO's said his identification must come from Oakland.

Jasper, in an isolated section of northwest Arkansas, is 150 miles northwest of Little Rock.

Rescue workers reported finding parts of a man's body and two Army caps, one bearing a captain's insignia, at the scene.

State Police Sgt. Damon Wilson reported by radio to his office that part of the ship was atop the bluff of Roundtop mountain and part of the wreckage at the foot. The wreckage burned for several hours after the crash.

Says Farm Stock Gets Better Care Than Some Children

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 7—Farm animals get better feeding care than children, Joseph W. Fichter, Ohio Grange master, said today.

He made the assertion in a speech before the American Medical Association's national conference on rural health.

Fichter, National Grange health committee chairman, said diseases and health disorders among children could be thwarted by an expanded health education program.

"Many schools have started a good health education program within recent years, but there are comparatively few schools which have an effective health program," Fichter charged.

The situation, he added, is worse in rural schools "as a result of lack of funds and in many cases lack of interest" and declared:

"It might well be said that more attention has been given to the care and feeding of farm animals than has been given to the healthful feeding and care of children."

Fichter recommended two programs to improve child health on farms and in the city.

Dionne Quintuplets 14 in May, Now Are Aunts

By The Associated Press

NORTH BAY, Ont., Feb. 7—The Dionne quintuplets, who will be 14 next May 28, are aunts now.

Their first niece was born yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital here. She weighed seven pounds.

She is the first child of their elder brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dionne, and the first grandchild of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne of nearby Callander.

Second Set of Triplets "Doing Nicely" Today

By The Associated Press

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 7—Mrs. Margaret Walker's second set of triplets were "doing nicely" today.

But Syracuse General hospital cautiously kept the one-in-a-million triumvirate in an oxygen tent.

The 40-year-od mother was "doing very nicely," too, the hospital said, and the father, Michael, took a turn for the better.

"I should be used to it by now," he observed.

The Walkers, who are buying their four-bedroom house on a factory repairman's salary, now have nine children.

The new ones, a boy and two girls, were born within eight minutes yesterday. They weighed 17 pounds.

TAFT SEES RUSE TO KEEP PRICES HIGH

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 — Senator Taft (R-Ohio) accused the Democratic administration today of a deliberate attempt to keep prices high for political reasons.

The idea, he said, is to "create an air of false prosperity" for the presidential election campaign.

Taft told a reporter he can put no other interpretation on the advance announcement of Secretary of Agriculture Anderson the government plans soon to buy 50,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Anderson disclosed this at a news conference Thursday after corn and wheat had dropped the legal limit of 2 and 10 cents a bushel for two days in a row.

Usually the government's buying intentions are kept secret.

The announcement by Anderson was followed by a brief rise in wheat. But yesterday's market closed with the legal limit drop for the third consecutive time.

Taft, a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, said he thinks Anderson took an unusual course to boost sagging prices.

"The administration, which talks about bringing prices down, is afraid that they actually will come down," the Ohioan said. "Of course, they think their only chance of winning the November election is to keep prices up and create an air of false prosperity."

BRADLEY TAKES OVER AS ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF

Gen. Eisenhower Says Manpower Situation Serious as He Gives Up Post.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told a farewell news conference today the Army's manpower situation is "getting serious." He said something must be done about it.

Eisenhower spoke as Army chief of staff shortly before turning the job over to Gen. Omar N. Bradley.

The army now is about 100,000 under its proposed strength.

As one means of encouraging recruiting, Eisenhower suggested the Army should give extra pay to men assigned to some of the more undesirable spots in the world. This would be in addition to the 20 per cent extra given all troops on overseas assignment.

He expressed hope for early enactment of legislation to make the Women's Army Corps a permanent establishment. Unless legislation is passed, the WAC unit will cease to exist on June 30.

Convinced of Value

Eisenhower said he is thoroughly convinced of the value of women in the Army.

Eisenhower said his personal plans after leaving the job today include a start on writing his memoirs during the two months' leave due him before he checks out of active military duty and prepares to go to work as president of Columbia university. He disclosed he has made an agreement with a publishing firm to do his book for him.

The former supreme commander of allied forces in Europe was asked what he considered the greatest moment of his military career.

His Greatest Moment

He replied "the natural thing would be to say it was when the surrender instrument was signed," but added this occasion had been anticipated and its value written off in advance. He meditated a moment, then he said:

"I think the greatest moment was when I got the word that the 82nd and 101st airborne divisions had landed on the Cherburg peninsula."

He disclosed he had ordered that phase of the invasion of Europe in June, 1944, "over the bitter opposition of the experts." He said it was necessary that the airborne operation be carried out to secure control of the exits from the peninsula in connection with the beachhead landings.

Eisnheower said "I'm not going to tell any stuffy goodby to the troops. I'll just tell them 'by God, you've done a great job.'"

President Truman arranged to attend the change-of-command ceremonies at noon at the Pentagon building, national defense headquarters.

The 57-year-old Eisenhower steps out of the Army after 33 years of service topped by supreme command of the World War II allied forces in Europe.

HAPPINESS IN EVERLY HOME

Mary Ann, 6, Virtually Cured of Polio, Returns from Hospital.

One of the happiest homes in Marion today is that of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Everly of 77d Congress street. And the reason—six-year-old Mary Ann, their only daughter, is home from Children's Hospital in Columbus, where she has been undergoing treatment for infantile paralysis since last September.

And Mary Ann is well on the road to where she will soon be out with her brothers and playmates, playing and skipping just as she did before she was stricken, thanks to the Marion chapter of the March of Dimes, hospital doctors and nurses, and the work of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis which has made possible the research work for the cure of the disease.

No Visitors Now

Mary Ann can not receive visitors for a while, the excitement would be to much for her, hospital attendants warned, but she is thoroughly enjoying being at home and with her parents and brothers, Donald, Terry and Kevin. One of the many thrills is getting acquainted all over again with her brothers whom she had not seen since last September.

Wearing a brace on her left leg, she is learning to walk again, with the help of her mother, and already can walk to the bathroom and to her meals. In addition to the daily exercises which her mother has taken over after hours of instruction at the hospital, it's rest periods of an hour each morning and two hours in the afternoon.

Contributions to Marion county's March of Dimes campaign reached $5,295.63, and gifts are

MURRAY TELLS WALLACE MEN TO QUIT CIO

Ultimatum Comes In Letter Accepting Resignation of Lee Pressman.

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 — President Philip Murray handed CIO officials a stern ultimatum today which said in effect: Renounce Henry Wallace's third party—or get out.

CIO sources said that choice was plainly implied in Murray's letter accepting the resignation of Lee Pressman, who had been general counsel for the CIO and United Steelworkers for 12 years.

Pressman said he quit to be free to work for Wallace. Murray replied that the decision would eliminate "embroiling yourself or me in difficulties concerning matters of fundamental CIO policy."

CIO right wingers said the reply adds up to a blunt "follow CIO policy or resign." The CIO executive board voted a fortnight ago to oppose Wallace.

Two Others

Two other prominent Wallace backers hold CIO offices. They are Albert J. Fitzgerald, president of United Electrical Workers and one of the nine CIO vice presidents, and Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union, and CIO director for northern California.

Murray reportedly has authority to oust them from their CIO posts but not from their union presidencies.

Some sources said Fitzgerald, Bridges and other left wing leaders may follow Pressman out of the CIO before the 1948 election campaign is over. There is some doubt that they could take their memberships with them, however.

The 41-year-old Pressman quit under pressure of Murray's anti-Communist and anti-Wallace policy. At the recent executive board meeting, Murray told CIO officials he is "fed up" with some union leaders "messing up good trade union action by following the Communist party line."

Afterwards, he listed for reporters how each board member voted on the issue—the first time he ever openly laid the finger on the left wing elements opposed to his leadership.

Presidents Walter P. Reuther of United Auto Workers and Emil Rieve of Textile Workers of America were among the top CIO right-wingers urging Murray to drop Pressman. Pressman's departure removed the dominant left winger from high CIO policy-making position.

6 PERSONS INDICTED BY GRAND JURORS

Charges Against Seven Ignored in Report Today.

Seven indictments were returned against six persons today by the January term Marion county grand jury. The jury, in session since Wednesday, has been given 14 cases by County Prosecutor James E. Reed.

Indicted were: Dennis Lewis Trachsel, receiving and concealing stolen property; Herman Neff and Harold Thompson, both fraud; Joseph Holley, cutting with intent to wound; John Belford, two counts, cutting with intent to wound and assault and battery; and James Thomas, non-support.

No indictments were returned in these cases: Goldie Wells, fraud; Hazel Fair, armed robbery; Charles E. Brown, larceny; Gilbert Ferris, assault and battery; Irene D. Berry, shooting with intent to kill; Kay Ann West, grand larceny and James W. Thomasson, receiving and concealing stolen property.

The report on inspection of Marion county jail says the grand jury found the jail clean and in a sanitary condition, that proper discipline is being maintained and the prisoners properly treated and cared for. It also found that rules prescribed by the judge of the common pleas court have been kept and observed and that the laws for regulation of county jails observed.

The grand jury had no changes to recommend to the management of the county jail.

KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Customer's Role To Be Theme In Second Retail Sales Session

What the customer thinks will be demonstrated to Marion merchandisers attending the second session of the Retail Training Institute when Miss Amanda A. Thomas, research secretary of the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants, addresses them on the subject, "The Customer Speaks Her Mind," Monday night at 7 o'clock in the Central Junior High school auditorium.

Putting theory into practice, Miss Thomas will lead a discussion panel of "typical customers" which will include: a housewife, business girl, club woman, saleswoman, salesman, and a business man.

She is a graduate of Ohio State university. For the last nine years she has been associated with the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants, first as field secretary and for the last five years as research secretary. She is a member of the state advisory committee for distributive education, the American and Ohio Vocational association and the American Statistical association.

The training session of the institute will present a motion picture, "Along Main Street," produced for the Coca Cola Co., which demonstrates by contrasts the value and effectiveness of human factors in selling.

RENT CONTROL BATTLE COOLS

Truce in Effect Until Feb. 16 When Committee Will Meet To Write Bill.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—Both sides in the explosive senate dispute over extending rent controls began a "cooling off" period today.

It will end February 16, a week from next Monday. Chairman Tobey (RNH) will call the divided senate banking committee together then to write a bill.

That will be just 13 days before the present rent control act ends. This law covers some 40,000,000 tenants.

The delay gives the committee ten days to think over proposals to have the extension bill permit automatic rent increases and automatic lifting of all ceilings in some communities.

These suggestions by a subcommittee provoked a sharp split in the 13 member banking group yesterday. After a two-hour closed session, no agreement was reported on any portion of the subcommittee bill.

If a deadlock persists, Tobey said, he will ask a 30 or 60 day stop-gap extension of the present law.

The subcommittee measure was drafted by a group of five headed by Senator Cain (R-Wash). It would:

►Extend rent controls in greatly relaxed form until April 30, 1949.

►Permit no-limit rent increases in cases where landlords and tenants agree on leases running through all of 1949.

►Remove at the end of this year controls over rents of 1,600,000 tenants who signed leases with 15 per cent increases, running through 1948, under the present law.

►Allow automatic rent increases in cases where landlords can prove their operating costs have increased. The increases would be at the rate of half the percentage of the increase in operating costs. If operating costs went up 20 per cent, rents would rise 10 per cent. But increases would be limited to 15 per cent.

►Remove rent ceilings in communities where the census bureau finds that 1 per cent of the houses are for rent or sale.

RICE MURDER CASE SUSPECT IDENTIFIED

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7—Mrs. Elmo C. Rice, wife of the slain Columbus real estate operator, today identified a man who escaped from the Huntington State hospital in West Virginia as the man who visited the Rice apartment Dec. 10, the night her husband was slain.

Homer Jack Dean, who escaped from the mental institution yesterday after overpowering an armed guard, was identified by Mrs. Rice on a trip to Huntington accompanied by Columbus police officials.

A man-hunt was extended over three states in an effort to apprehend Dean, described by police as the "hottest lead" so far in the murder case.

A cab driver who drove a stranger to a point near the Rice home the night of the murder said he could not be certain Dean was the man when shown a picture of the mental hospital inmate.

SOME FUTURES SHOW ABILITY TO COME BACK

Lower Flour and Lard Prices First Evidence of Drop in Cost of Living.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 — Grain prices moved wildly today with some evidence the market was digging in for a last-ditch stand after a three-day tumble.

Grain contracts for nearby delivery were again hammered down but later deliveries at times managed sizable gains. Corn was more vulnerable to rapid-fire selling than wheat.

The week's heavy losses in grains and other commodities have already spread to the retail food counter.

Announcements of lower prices for lard and flour were widespread and pork products were cut here and there. The declines were linked directly with action of grains.

Both grains tumbled the daily allowable limit — 10 cents for wheat and 8 cents for corn—for the third successive day Friday.

Retail lard price reductions amounted to 4 cents a pound.

At Minneapolis millers' price of flour dropped 60 cents in three days bringing family patents—the type sold for home consumption—to $7.30 a hundred pounds.

Extent Uncertain

Whether the initial crevice in the high cost of living would widen to a definite break was uncertain.

Top-level government economists, on a "don't quote me" basis, didn't believe retail food prices would match the current sag on the exchanges. They saw the wholesale decline as a healthy adjustment rather than a sign of abrupt collapse.

In its psychological effect, one said, drop in futures quotations "will strengthen consumer resistance to high prices."

Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, said, "unless other cost factors, such as labor," offset lower commodity levels, "a halt to the upward price movement is indicated."

He pointed out that GMA members, who include the majority of the nation's makers of processed and packaged foods, base their prices not on daily variations but on an average of raw material costs over weeks or months.

Signs of Steadying

Some signs of steadying appeared yesterday in a day of wild fluctuation on some commodity markets.

Oats at Chicago failed to follow other grains to the limit decline, with some oats futures even showing a gain from the preceding day. Cotton was erratic with closing prices mixed at New York. While soybeans at Chicago again fell the daily limit of 8 cents, soybean oil and other vegetable oils on New York markets continued a lower trend. Wholesale butter, down at Chicago, headed upward to a new peak at Baltimore and within 1½ cents a pound of its record high at New York.

Food Companies Cut Flour, Lard Prices

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7 — Kroger today announced the price of its 20-ounce loaf of bread would drop Monday from 15 cents to 14.

Arthur Metzger, branch manager for the Cleveland area, said the cut was due to "the drop in the grain market" and would apply throughout the 18 states in which Kroger operates.

He added reductions on other foods, probably including some flour and meat items, were being planned within this area, at least.

The 20-ounce loaf has been priced at two for 29 cents. Monday two loaves will sell for 27 cents.

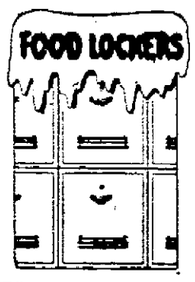
JUST THINK OF IT! You can enjoy garden fresh vegetables and fruits, finer cuts of meat, fresh game, the whole year 'round—set a sumptous table all winter long—without pulling food costs out of line! A frozen food locker is the answer—the modern, economical answer to better living—at a big saving.

A frozen food locker keeps fresh foods actually FRESH throughout the year. It maintains the natural flavor, appearance and food values more satisfactorily. As a matter of fact, tests conducted by various state experiment stations PROVE that practically all VITAMINS are retained in modern freezer storage. Foods will be just as good—just as tempting and nutritious when they come out of the locker as when they were put in.

Take advantage of the abundance of certain foods and low prices during the season of flush production. Your family can have frozen and stored foods at proper temperature, under sanitary conditions, a whole season's supply of FRESH fruits, vegetables and meats at a pronounced saving.

You will find that your frozen food locker will actually save you money—that it pays for itself over and over again! In these days, especially, when you want to eat well—yet keep costs down—a frozen food locker is one of the wisest, most foresighted investments you could possibly make!

In this modern refrigerated plant you can have your meats cut, and wrapped according to your specifications by qualified and experienced people.



In the locker room are 600 all steel lockers, each with its own individual keys and where you can serve yourself.

Welcome, Francis Roush, owner manager of the Marion Frozen Food Center. Your foresight and confidence in building a frozen food locker plant in Marion makes us proud and happy to welcome you to the business life of our community. You, Mr. Roush have helped make it possible for Marion to assume the title of "The Shopping Center" it is of North Central Ohio.

MISS RUTH MOLLOY entertained with a luncheon today at Hotel Harding, for the pleasure of Mrs Robert H. Naylor, a bride of last month. The hostess chose an arrangement of shell pink carnations and tapers for the table laid in the Presidential suite. A guest from out of the city was Mrs. Francis E Nevin of Meadville, Pa. Mrs. Naylor before her marriage Jan. 24 was Miss Margaret Harlow of this city.

MRS. Lowell Williams, Mrs Richard Denman, Mrs. Jack Danner and Mrs Mark Bowe were associate hostesses when the Child Study club of the Child Conservation League entertained with a guest party Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. D. H Weber of 301 Bradford street. Miss Barbara McIntire played the serenade from "Lucia," and Mrs. Kenneth Roberts reviewed "The Child from Five to Ten," by Dr. Arnold Gesell. Red and white carnations and red tapers were combined with valentine motifs to carry out a decorative theme for the table, at which Mrs C. R Pennington and Mrs. John R Humphreys presided.

Guests included Mrs. William Oldaker, Mrs. Russell Nickol, Mrs. Ray Retterer, Mrs. Darl Coldwell, Mrs. John Cottrell, Mrs Laird Rickle, Mrs. Judson Kerr, Mrs. Humphreys, Mrs W. D. Selanders, members of the Child Life circle and Mrs. Ivan Barnhart, Mrs Leo Harvey and Mrs. J. H. Walker.

Mrs Pennington announced a meeting at St Paul Episcopal parish house, Feb. 23, sponsored by the Marion Federation of the Child Conservation League, at which Dr. Tennyson Guyer of Findlay will speak. The annual children's party will be held March 6 at the home of Mrs D. T Mills of 136 Hill street.

MEMBERS of the House and Garden unit of the Marion Garden club opened their season with a combined social and program meeting yesterday afternoon at the Federation Home. A pot-luck luncheon was followed by a program presented by Mrs. U. A. Nystrom Shoes, titled "Birds in Your Garden," from the National Audubon society's collection of Bird Portraits by Allen Brooks, were shown. During a social hour Mrs. O. D Anderson entertained with a group of piano numbers. A contribution was made to the annual Red Cross fund campaign. Hostesses were Mrs. George E. Planck, Mrs Homer R Waddell, Mrs. A. W Kette, Mrs Walter Haldeman and Mrs. Howard Ropke.

ACTIVITIES for the year were outlined at the first meeting of the season for the Town and Country unit of the Marion Garden club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz on Mt. Vernon avenue. A meeting of the board and dessert preceded the general meeting, for which Mrs. Wilbur H. Symes, president, presided. Miss Maud S. Gorham, chairman, outlined the program for the coming season and for the program Mrs John F. Lacey gave a paper, "Flowers in My Garden" and Mrs. L D. Hamilton a paper on "Flower Arrangements in the Home." Associate hostesses were Mrs John A. David, Mrs. David W. Evans, Mrs Leland H Gurney, Mrs. Frank R. Mann and Mrs. Robert E White.

Plans were made for guest day Feb 19 at a meeting of members of Que Club Thursday evening at the Federation Home. Speaker will be Mrs Irma Anderson, curator of textiles at Ohio State university and also the university's director of public relations. Hostesses were Misses Irene and Grace Epler. Miss Frola Klopfenstein reviewed "Spoon Handle," a humorous story of three generations of St Lowell's on the Spoon Handle peninsula area on the coast of Maine. Mrs Eleanor Dunlap gave a paper, "The Men in American," a Yankee [illegible] story. Miss Lydia Low read a poem, "The Clean Captain," by Robert Claffin.

A contribution of $3 was made to the Marion County chapter of the Red Cross and $2 to the March of Dimes at a meeting of the Forsaptly Study club Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. James Ritzler of 863 Merkle avenue. Mrs Ritzler conducted the devotions and for the program Mrs Rolland Augenstein gave a paper on Lincoln, the man and a comparison of newspaper headlines of his day and today. Mrs James Wooley gave a biography of Milton and read excerpts from some of his work.

Four new members were welcomed into the Friendship club at a meeting Thursday evening with Mrs. Leona Claypool of 238 Leader street. They are Mrs. Lillian Cook, Mrs. Dorothy Briner, Mrs Edith Fox and Mrs. Violet Davis. Twenty members responded to roll call and Mrs. Luella Osborne was a guest. The time was spent in piecing quilt blocks. Refreshments in keeping with the Valentine theme were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Nora Ireland. The next meeting will be March 4 at the home of Mrs. Lillian Snider of 140 Johnson street with Mrs. Celeste Clark as co-hostess.

Honored guest at a dinner Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph P Zwolle of 197 Fies avenue was their nephew, Pvt Donald Lee Joslin of Missoula, Mont., who has been stationed with the Army Air Corps in Texas. Enroute to military Band school in Washington, D. C., he stopped here to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Zwolle. Pvt. Joslin is a son of Mrs. F. S. Hait of Missoula, Mont., who recently visited here.

Guests for dinner included Mrs. Ella Carr and daughters, Nora Lee and Mrs. Sharon Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. P. J Zwolle, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wayne Crissinger, Mrs. Gertrude Zwolle, Misses Gertrude, Elva, Ruth and Cressie Ellen Zwolle, Thomas and Delbert Zwolle, and Jackie Lee and Harold Wayne Crissinger. Guests later in the evening included Russell Messenger, Carl Wilkerson and Howard Bauer.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Rowe of Park View drive was hostess for a meeting of the Sunny Bunch Euchre club Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Ruth Bruce was a guest. Awards in cards were won by Mrs. Bonna Rinbolt, Mrs. Veriae Young and Mrs. Monna Williams.

Mrs. A. G. Birch of Edgewood drive was hostess when the Round Table met Wednesday afternoon. A contribution of $5 was made to the local Red Cross campaign and Mrs. George Smith reported $50.85 netted in the sale of articles made by the blind of the state. The resignation of Mrs. E. Holt, who will move to Springfield soon, was received. Miss Helen Kramer gave a paper on "Regional Art in America," which she illustrated with examples of various works of art.

A contribution of $5 was made to the Marion County Red Cross campaign at a meeting of the Pleasant Homemakers club recently at the school building. B R. Hurst of the Hurst Floral shop gave a demonstration on the making of corsages. Flowers were presented to Mrs. Giles Hoch, Mrs. Robert Seiter and Mrs. Stella Mehaffey. A skit was given by Miss Betty Fogle, Miss Peggy Grate, Miss Evelyn Mehaffey and Miss Marjorie Williams. A valentine party was planned for Feb 16 at the school. Hostesses were Miss Medella Seiter, Mrs Thad Kuenzli, Mrs. James Rush and Mrs. Paul Cochel.

Election of officers for the new year was conducted when the Wit and Wisdom club met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Harlos Moyer in Waldo. Mrs Wesley Kaelber was chosen president, Mrs. H. D Wilson, vice president, Mrs. Claire Gearhiser, secretary, and Mrs. Clyde Porterfield, treasurer.

"Reviews of Famous Women" were given in response to roll call. I had known that she ... be for some years, her efforts ... with my husband and plunge me ... to shameful obscurity, until she ... I had done out of the way.

From beneath my lowered eyelids, I shot a glance at Dicky ... had heard the catch of his breath ... at the first sight of the woman ... when that he had seen her resemblance to the image of so many of his mediocre illustrations in those far-off years, who had loved him so devastatingly and—I was glad to remember—so hopelessly, although I had not known that blessed truth for so many months of grief and terror. What would be his reaction to those old memories?

I do not quite know what I had expected to see—perhaps whitened and clenched lips, clenched fingers eyes filled with consternation and memories—although no features would have been inscrutable. But, with a rush of relief that almost overwhelmed me, I saw that, while he was ... at the stranger, he was wholly relaxed and that there was even the ghost of a smile touching his lips. He was not even watching me—of course I knew he would avoid that gesture carefully—but I was sure that he had heard me catch of breath, and had seen my first consternation.

It was easy to guess the reason for his smile. A similar one was hovering around the lips of Harry Underwood. Both men were patently amused at the touch of embarrassment in the manner of the usually imperturbable Mr. "K." He had exactly the look of a fond parent presiding over the first "speaking a piece" of a precocious child.

I looked at Lillian, and saw that she was watching me intently. I lifted my hand in a little reassuring salute that no one else saw, for they were all looking at the stranger. Even my father was paying no attention to me, something which greatly relieved me. He evidently had no idea of the resemblance between the living woman and the one dead for so many years. Grace Draper had gone out of my life—temporarily—before my father had found me after so many long years of separation, and I did not think he had any distinct memories of her in her subsequent unsuccessful attempts to wreck my life.

Lillian gave me a relieved smile, and secure in the knowledge that she and I were temporarily free from observation, formed a message with her lips. She, Harry, Dicky and I, knew something of lip-reading, and have used the device to advantage in some of the secret work for my father.

"Isn't this something?" her lips said. "I'm glad it isn't getting you down. But get an eyeful of K."

"I will," I answered in the same fashion, "and thank you for worrying about me. But I'm perfectly all right. And the resemblance isn't so strong when you pick her to pieces."

"Right you are," she nodded back, and then turned her face back to Mr. "K.", the strange woman, and my father, who, mercifully for me, had engaged her in what appeared to be an important colloquy before introducing her to Dicky and me.

He finished his conversation, and turned to me, providently missing my interchange of lip-reading.

"Margaret," he said, with the deferential courtesy he always uses in introducing me to any one, "may I present Miss Carlotta Carroll? My daughter, Mrs. Graham, Miss Carroll, and my son-in-law, Mr. Graham."

Weapons Against Malaria

Malaria, always a sickness to be reckoned with in the southern part of the United States has, since the war, become a serious problem in many other sections of the country. Thousands of veterans, infected during their overseas service in tropic areas, have returned to their home communities, bringing the disease with them and passing it on to others via the ever-present mosquito.

Fortunately, in this juncture we have better weapons against malaria than ever before. To quinine, the classic anti-malarial drug for more than 300 years, modern science has added two others even more effective—atabrine and chloroquin.

The usual symptoms of malaria consist of attacks of chills, fever, and sweats. The patient also complains of tiredness and aches and pains in the muscles.

Ordinarily, the condition is not difficult to diagnose. It is caused by a parasite which attacks the red cells of the blood, and these parasites are readily found when the blood of an infected person is examined under the microscope. Thus, whenever malaria is suspected, such an examination should be made.

Today there are many authorities who believe that chloroquin surpasses both quinine and atabrine in the treatment of malaria, since it causes no harmful reactions in the patient. Any one of these drugs, however, when properly used, will cause the symptoms to disappear and the parasites to vanish from the blood, and all of them still have their uses.

Atabrine may cause such discomforts as nausea or sickness at the stomach, vomiting and diarrhea. Its use over a long period of time may also result in a skin inflammation and a yellowish discoloration of the skin. Like chloroquin, atabrine is given by mouth except in those cases where the critical illness of the patient demands a speedier method of attacking the parasites. Then it is given by injection into a muscle.

Quinine is reserved for those patients who have some sensitivity to other drugs. Quinine may cause ringing in the ears, and perhaps some blurring and dimness of the eyesight, as well as nausea and vomiting.

During an attack of malaria, certain pain-relieving drugs are often prescribed by the physician. If sleeplessness is present, there are preparations which may be used to help overcome it.

A great deal of fluid may be lost from the body because of sweating and this should be replaced by the injection of salt or glucose solutions into a vein. If the patient is extremely weakened, the injection of blood plasma, or the fluid part of the blood may also be advised. For severe anemia injections of whole blood may be utilized.

Following an attack, the patient's strength should be built up with a well-balanced diet, containing large amounts of vitamins and minerals, particularly iron, which assists the body in its effort to replace the red corpuscles destroyed by the disease.

Questions and Answers

G. K.: I have a felon on my finger. What is the cause of a felon and what is the best treatment?

Answer: When pus forms around the nail, the condition is known as paronychia or felon. Such an infection should be treated by a physician so that the pus sac can be opened and drained before the pus gets under the nail.

Ultraviolet ray treatments of the ends of the fingers are helpful in treating this type of infection.

TO APPEAL VERDICT

BUCYRUS — Notice of intention to appeal has been filed by Lloyd C. Downing in the damage action against Edward Truka Jr., both of Bucyrus. When the action, seeking damages of $2,733.23 was heard in September a Common Pleas court petit jury returned a verdict for the defendant. The case grew out of an intersection automobile accident in Bucyrus May 11, 1946.

RAILROAD SAFETY PROGRAM PLANNED

Will Be Presented in Marion Schools Next Week.

The annual "Railroad Safety" program of the Pennsylvania railroad police department will be conducted in the Marion public and parochial schools starting Tuesday, Feb. 12. It was announced today by Captain H. C. Smith of the railroad police department.

Patrolmen V. A. Gill of Marion and M. R. Craig of Dayton will show the new technicolor film, "Comes Now Way," and present a series of safety talks to the pupils and members of the faculty of all the schools.

A similar program has been presented each year for the last several years, in hope of reducing or eliminating not only trespassers to railroad property, but needless loss of life and injuries to juveniles which result from trespassing or playing on railroad property.

So far the results have been very encouraging on the Pennsylvania road, Captain Smith states. Not only have depredations been reduced to a minimum but accidents have gradually decreased from 29 in 1939 to a new low of 2 in 1946.

This program is designed to acquaint the pupils with the instructions and the dangers of trespassing on railroad property, taking short cuts across tracks and yards at other than authorized crossings and the delay, and sometimes accidents, to trains caused by thoughtless throwing of stones and other objects at signals, switch stands, insulators and trains.

The following is the schedule: Olney and North Main Street buildings, Tuesday afternoon; Silver Street, Glenwood and Mark Street buildings, Wednesday; George Washington, Forest Lawn, Greenwood Oak Street and Pearl Street buildings, Thursday; Edison Junior High, Vernon Junior High, Central Junior High and St. Mary Parochial schools, Friday.

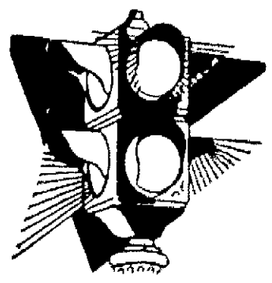
PROTECTION



Why not use the same precautions in your relations with The National City Bank for financial protection?

Each dollar has equal value but all do not produce equally. However, the greatest results may be realized if thought and care are exercised in their use. You take no risk in disclosing your affairs to your bank—every transaction is strictly confidential and the better your banker knows your affairs the better he can advise you and help you if investment opportunity is presented. Your first step can be the opening of accounts here.

SAVINGS ACCOUNTS

Besides building yourself a cushion for unexpected expenses, worthwhile investments and comfortable old age you learn the discipline and regularity of payments which will stand you in good position for taking on large obligations which your banker will be more willing to arrange. Any amount accepted any time and withdrawals are unrestricted. Safety, up to $5,000, against loss, is insured.

CHECKING ACCOUNTS

Through this medium also you acquire the ability to control expenditures and know positively to whom and when money has been paid. Many temptations to spend without thought are avoided and the desire to maintain a larger and larger balance is increased. Analysis of your records are also helpful to your banker in forming an opinion of your financial worthiness.

Taft Sets a Good Example

SENATOR TAFT'S opposition to the St. Lawrence seaway is based on two reasons that refresh sweating taxpayers.

1. The project would cost at least three-quarters of a billion dollars—and the United States can't afford that kind of money now.

2. Aside from its power-development features, which he finds "important and desirable," the project is of dubious value to transportation and defense.

Senator Taft implies that the seaway may be all right later, in spite of divided opinion about it, if there is need for public works to give employment. This makes it clear that the greater of his reasons for opposing it is to avoid an avoidable expense right now.

This is consistent with the stated policy of the Republican party. It says it wants to save money. It promises to cut at least $2,500,000,000 from the pending budget.

But it would be foolish to cut the budget with one hand and add to it with the other. Last year, unfortunately, that was what happened. Republicans talked about cutting the budget as much as $6,000,000,000, but when congress got through appropriating money all the proposed saving had disappeared.

There is danger of the same thing this year. New spending bills are a dime a dozen—or, more to the point, half a billion a dozen. The savers are in danger of being snowed under by the spenders. Senator Taft's example as the party's leader in domestic affairs is this.

If money can be saved, save it. The United States already has more hay down than it can comfortably handle.

Possible Effects of a Tax Cut

ONE BENEFIT of income tax reduction might be to avert another round of wage increases. It would be better than a pay raise because it would affect almost all wage earners—school teachers, federal employes and white-collar workers.

An argument against tax reduction is that it would reduce government revenues, but this is not necessarily true. Revenues continued to climb following tax reduction after World War I. Corporation tax payments are greater now than in 1945, despite repeal of the excess profits tax.

The effects of a tax cut on the economic system are not readily translatable into the simple terms used by those who take a quick look at the tables of percentages and see benefits to the higher income brackets, while overlooking the broad effects of tax cuts.

In a recent speech at Philadelphia on "The Flow of Venture Capital," Senator Millikin of Colorado observed: "If, as a result of tax penalties . . . the investors of our society are unwilling to assume the risks of starting new enterprises and bringing new products into the market, the tempo of business is certain to decline and the rate of progress of our economy will slow down, to the detriment of all persons who make up our society."

Our greatest need is increased production. This calls for the investment of huge sums in new plants, methods and equipment—105 billions is the estimate for the next five years. One great source of that fund would be savings effected by income-tax reduction.

The Fog Gets in Your Eyes

SOONER or later the fog that keeps Americans from knowing what can be legally done to get rid of aliens who advocate overthrow of their government must be blown away.

Leave Communists out of it.

Leave personalities out of it.

Leave prejudice for and against certain organizations out of it.

Leave civil liberties out of it, too, because they are guaranteed only to citizens of the United States.

The fact then remains that existing federal law forbids admission of immigrants who want to destroy "any government in the United States" by force or violence. If such immigrants do enter the country and apply for citizenship, they can be refused, if the facts are known. Or if they conceal their identity or purpose at any point in the procedure of getting into the country, they can be brought to justice.

The law is clear. The fog's the trouble. The fog-makers so far have concealed the only issue, which is whether a sovereign people can protect themselves against conspiracies to overthrow their government. The answer, of course, is yes. It can't be anything else. A typical case (several are available) should be carried to the supreme court to affirm once and for all that the fog experts can't make suckers out of a whole nation.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Bogart's Position as Commie Hater Still in Doubt.

DEAR Humphrey Bogart: Some time ago I received a mimeographed letter from you in which you confessed to a foolish act.

It seemed to be a letter from a true heart and I accepted it on its face value. So I thought that I could be a good fellow and acclaim your virtue. Subsequently, I received a letter signed by Philip Dunne and John Huston in which they assumed full responsibility for your admitted foolishness. They got you on the flying carpet from Hollywood to Washington to picket the Thomas committee by beauty and glamor.

SOKOLSKY

Now, no one forced you to send out that mimeographed letter. You did it of your own choice. You broke no law when you flew to Washington at the head of your gang. The right of petition is inalienable. Every American has that right. In fact, an American may even be a Communist, if he chooses. It is a matter of philosophy and taste, not of law.

But you chose to say:

"I have never in my life been identified with any group which was even sympathetic to Communism.

"My name will not be found on any Communist Front organization as a sponsor of anything Communistic.

"I went to Washington because I thought fellow Americans were being deprived of their constitutional rights, and for that reason alone.

"That the trip was ill-advised, even foolish, I am very ready to admit. At the time it seemed the thing to do."

Sound Like Honest Words

Those are very strong words and I assumed that you meant them. They sounded like the honest reaction of an American who had discovered that he had been fooled. And he wasn't having any of it. He seemed to stand up big and true.

So now I come across an item in the "Hollywood Citizens-News" which reads:

"No one," said Bogart, 'has proved there is anything wrong with the Committee for the First Amendment. Until such time as it is proved un-American and subversive I shall continue to be a member. If in the future it is proved un-American and subversive I shall resign.'"

Now that, my dear Humphrey Bogart, is begging the question. This organization is the one that contrived to get you to do something which you described as ill-advised, even foolish." Do you mean to say that you do not regret that? Do you mean to tell me that you have no suspicions at all of an organization that got you to do something "ill-advised, even foolish?"

You say, in the "Hollywood Citizen-News" interview that you know nothing that would definitely describe the committee for the first amendment as subversive and un-American. Maybe so. But you, yourself, wrote that the trip to Washington was "ill-advised, even foolish." You said that you were sometimes "a foolish and impetuous American."

There Are Other Angles

Well, there is nothing of impetuosity about continuing to belong to an organization that made a fool of you by your own admission.

I also note that you are to appear in a motion picture, entitled, "Key Largo," directed by John Huston. The cast is to include your wife, Lauren Bacall, Edward G. Robinson, and, of course, others. This I take it as the same John Huston who described himself, in a letter to me, as the official spokesman for the Committee for the First Amendment. He made the point in that letter.

"Mr. Bogart and Miss Bacall were not, as you allege, 'stuck out in front,' except by press photographers, while the group was in Washington." In other words, you and Miss Bacall did not really count. You apparently hogged the show, Mr. Huston said.

"The official spokesmen at all press conferences held by the group were the two signers of this letter," that is, Huston and Dunne.

Maybe it is embarrassing to you to quarrel with the director of your picture. Maybe you feel that if he says that you should stay in that organization, you ought to do it. Maybe your mimeographed circular, telling all, was also "ill-advised, even foolish." Maybe it was an impetuous thing to do.

You sure do get into situations. But don't try to fox me again—or the public.

With best regards to the lady,

GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY.

$120,000 Will Buy a Lot of Teeth . . .

Max Baer is being sued for $120,000 for hitting a stranger in the mouth.

That must be another fellow.

The Baer I'm thinking about couldn't do $1.20 worth of damage . . . not even at today's prices.

He was a one-man pacifist movement. And the greatest dancer since Nijinsky. But he couldn't punch his way out of a paper bag with a blow torch in either hand.

Oh, he had the physique, all right. Also the public relations department. In fact, he was a great all-around fighter until the bell rang. Then he was all-around . . . on the floor. . . . on the floor.

Baer sued for $120,000 damages. He can win that case with one witness . . . Jim Braddock.

Knock-Down, Drag-Out

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

AS ONE of the curious by-products of Henry A. Wallace's dreary crusade, the battle within the CIO, which has long been simmering none too gently, is now in the process of boiling over. The signal for all-out, eye-gouging, shin-kicking warfare between CIO's pro-Communist and anti-Communist wings is provided by the resignation of CIO counsel Lee Pressman.

Pressman, who has been the friend at court of the CIO's "left wing," was the symbol of the façade of unity which CIO president Philip Murray has until recently been desperately struggling to maintain while Pressman kept his post at national headquarters: All-out, public battle was avoided. Murray has kept the CIO together by means of bailing wire, sticking plaster, and a series of compromises. But the Pressman resignation is the culmination of a process which has been greatly accelerated in recent months. It means that the split in the CIO between the Communists and the great non-Communist majority is now unbridgeable. Thus there is serious speculation that the CIO may break in two even before the presidential elections next November.

To Join Wallace

The Wallace crusade (which, according to reports, Pressman now intends to join) has provided the immediate impetus for this final break. The Communists in the CIO have in the past been willing to go to considerable lengths to maintain their toe-hold in the American labor movement, even on occasion solemnly denouncing themselves in the interests of peace. But the Wallace campaign involves the foreign policy of the Soviet Union, and that is one area in which compromise by the Communists is not possible. Thus when Murray some weeks ago spoke in support of the Marshall plan on a state department broadcast, he suddenly ceased to be "our great leader" in the pages of "The Daily Worker." And when he attempted to swing the whole CIO away from Wallace, the leaders of the CIO's Communist-dominated unions for the first time publicly defied the CIO president.

The battle is now joined, and Pressman's departure is a signal that no quarter will be asked or granted. Moreover Murray, a born compromiser but also capable of some very punishing in-fighting, has been forced out of his place above the battle and into the leadership of the CIO's non-Communist majority. The battle's outcome will depend on the lengths to which Murray is willing to go.

Works on Two Fronts

Already Murray has initiated an offensive on two fronts. First, he has cleaned the Communist influence entirely out of CIO national headquarters, and he is moving to do likewise on the lower echelons, particularly on the industrial union councils in such cities as Cleveland, Los Angeles and New York. Second, he is starting the herculean labor of cleaning out the Political Action Committee, in which the ineffectual non-Communist Jack Kroll has been increasingly surrounded by party-liners. This will be a long and difficult task, especially since there are certain legal complications, but Murray is reported determined to go through with it.

The key question, however (and it is being anxiously asked among adherents of both sides of the struggle) is whether Murray will take the third essential step. That step is to carry the fight into the Communist-dominated unions themselves, and especially the strategically placed United Electrical Workers, third biggest union in the CIO.

Quite a Problem

To unseat the Communist satraps in such unions as the Electrical Workers would be enormously difficult. Communist control of unions in which they have become thoroughly established is patterned precisely after that of such political bosses as Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City and it is equally effective. Yet there have been signs that this control is essentially brittle. For example, when the New Jersey state CIO convention passed a resolution banning Communist officers, the delegates of the Communist-run locals walked out. But subsequently a rank-and-file meeting of the biggest local in New Jersey (The Camden local of the Electrical Workers) was called, and very heavily attended. The meeting overwhelmingly rejected the action of its officers.

Yet such sporadic revolts against Communist rule are like unplanned uprisings in a conquered country. They are futile unless they are organized, directed and financed from the outside. Thus

Election Year Parfait

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Feb. 7, 1938.

Harvey S. Firestone, the rubber magnate of Akron, died at his winter home in Miami, Fla. He was 69 years old.

It was announced that John W. Watters of 710 Vernon Heights boulevard was one of 74 of the 183 applicants for admission to the Ohio bar who passed the January state examination.

Mrs. John Davis of Bellefontaine avenue, Mrs. Charles Miller of Olney avenue, Mrs. Frank Harman of North State street and Mrs. W. F. Bull of South High street spent the day with Mrs. Mattie Burnison in Crestline.

A program at the Salvation Army hall brought to a close the Young People's rally which opened the preceding Saturday. Mrs. V. H. Barnhill, a member of the Salvation Army advisory board, presided for the program and awards were presented by Miss Edna S. Dutton, also a member of the board.

Mrs. Elmer McDonald of South Prospect street entertained the Whatsoever circle of the King's Daughters. Mrs. Harry S. Elliott conducted the devotions and Miss Mabel Wheatley gave a paper, "Deborah, Able Leader of Men."

"Women of the World" was the subject of a talk given by Mrs. Grace Parlette Sifritt, guest speaker for the program at a meeting of Le Mercure club. Mrs. Paul Bachman was hostess at the home of Mrs A. C. Bachman on East Center street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, Feb. 7, 1928.

Frank B. Willis was unanimously indorsed for the Republican presidential nomination at a meeting of county chairman and secretaries of the Eighth congressional district held here. The meeting was called by Fred W. Warner, chairman of the Republican State Central committee and took place in his office. Candidates for delegates and alternates to the national convention from the district to appear on the presidential preferential primary ballot on April 24 were delegates, Col. Ralph D. Cole of Findlay and Benjamin R. Connor of Ada and alternates John H. Clark and James R. Hopley of Bucyrus.

Carl Konkle of North Main street was in Cincinnati attending a convention of the Memorial Craft association.

Members of the Altrusa club were entertained by the new president, Miss Priscilla Smith at her home on South High street.

"Too Like Life Today"

By Frank Tripp

WE had just returned from a Sunday afternoon automobile ride. It was sort of an inspection; a test of roads which that morning were blanketed by a foot of snow. We found many bare, all passable.

"Pleasant ride," said Fanny; "too pleasant, too easy, too like life today."

I knew what she meant and shared her thoughts. She was thinking of genuinely snowbound Sunday afternoons of the 90s, when we were boy and girl sweethearts. All along the route of our ride we saw the difference.

TRIPP

We passed just one sleigh; that a resurrected cutter, drawn by a dismayed horse that seemed to be wondering what it was all about, as he wound his way among crowding cars with gaping occupants, many of whom never saw a cutter before.

Along a populated street with a tempting grade stood a group of kids, pondering where and how to enjoy their bright new Christmas sleds. The hill had been cindered, also the next, and the next.

Down those same hills, before an automobile was heard of jolly crowds of youngsters coasted all day long. I felt like stopping to clear away the cinders, as my gang would had there been such an outrage a half century ago. Those were our hills then.

Hopping bobs once was a pastime of the venturesome. It entailed risk of limb, was frowned upon by parents and policemen. When sleighs moved fast, as many did, it was a lucky lad who escaped with whole clothing and no scars. Occasionally a heavy sleigh crushed the foot of a youngster who misjudged his step.

The real thrill of bob-hopping was the adventure of a long ride out of town on the runners of a homeward bound farm sleigh. Probably that was the origin of hitch-hiking, only it was less certain than now.

Getting way off in the sticks was relatively easy once a good natured farmer came along. Getting back was not so simple. City-bound sleighs were not numerous, accommodating drivers fewer and horsewhips stung on cold legs, arms and sometimes faces.

What sting drivers' whips didn't administer would be waiting when the young wanderer returned after dark, found supper cleared away and dad at the door with his razor strop.

That his meandering offspring had trudged for hours through snow drifts was no reason to kill the fatted calf and celebrate the return of a prodigal. Instead it was a lacing and to bed with a crust.

The Urge To Travel

All of this was braved to get as little as five or six miles away from home. Always the urge of youth has been to go somewhere. And the urge of age always has been to get back.

Nostalgic thoughts must have flashed independently and differently through Fanny's mind and mine. Anyway I made an awful mistake.

I could have gone on reminiscing about cutters, sleighs and frustrated youngsters. Instead I got off on old-time Sunday night suppers; how the simple lunches surpassed the fuss we now make of the one meal we enjoy alone.

Tailspinning into sobs for the old days, I also recounted the romance of the liveryman's cutter, with your best girl snuggled under a warm but smelly buffalo robe.

To make it realistic I recited some specific events of my courting career. Braggadocio let it slip—the truth about an incident that hasn't been popular at our house for 40 years. It was out at last. Fanny grinned and snapped:

"So you did take her out that night after all."

With that she got up and went to the kitchen, leaving me kicking myself around the room.

When the usually welcome call to the festive board of Sunday night surprises sounded, I sheepishly repaired to a stingy one dish affair.

"What's that?" I asked.

"One of your good old-fashioned Sunday night banquets," gloated Fanny.

It was a bowl of bread and milk.

Women in Politics

Thin skins keep women out of politics, Representative Katharine St. George (R) of New York, is convinced.

"Easily hurt feelings have a lot to do with the relative scarcity of women in public office" she said. If women would learn to roll with the campaign punches as male politicians do, more of them would climb to more important jobs, she added.

Representative St. George, a congressional "freshman" from New York's 29th District, was not overlooking the fact that many women are tied down for years by home responsibilities.

"But when they do have time for politics, they are too likely to get discouraged," she said. "They can't take the rough-and-tumble of campaigning. They let their feelings be hurt by mud-slinging. They don't realize that these things usually are soon forgotten—at least by the people who said them."

Daily Bible Thought

If we are tormented by fear, why not let God take charge and trust him even where we cannot see. It certainly will be well in the end.—I John 4:18: "Fear hath torment, and he that feareth is not made perfect in love."

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Letters for Special Delivery

MR HENRY WALLACE,

Dear Hen,

In a press interview you said to me (over "You'll be amazed at the final outcome of the campaign. You have no idea how many people are afraid to express their views these days. For example I am constantly surprised at the number of people who see me in elevators and say they will vote for me."

* * *

Well, Henry, maybe you have got the elevator vote sewed up. I do not blame you for clutching at it as a lot of voters ride in elevators in this country and neither party has gone after them in a serious way. You are the first candidate for the Presidency to appreciate the support of elevator passengers. Harry Truman and the Democrats are asleep on this angle and have not even mentioned the elevator way of life. Governor Dewey has neglected the public pulse as reflected in elevators. Taft is no idol of the elevator riders. Harold Stassen hasn't appreciated what a lift (that's a joke, son) elevator voters can give a man.

* * *

You have fallen into napping, Henry. The elevator vote is significant, local or express. There is also the escalator or moving stairway vote, Hank, which you should not overlook. A lot of your supporters are escalator types. They like to sit down while going upstairs. This is a growing trend in America and a man who could promise escalators for all would be a shoo-in.

* * *

In considering the elevator vote, Hank, you must realize that you have got to divide it up. There is the up vote and the down vote. The up vote is the better guide on account of people are in a pretty happy mood going up, but get so sore waiting for one to stop for them going down that they are in no mood to be nice to anybody.

* * *

What I want to warn you about, Hank, is that maybe you are using the wrong elevators, anyhow. How have you done in the skyscraper elevators, the ones that carry the most passengers? They tell me Dewey gets the Chrysler and Empire State elevator vote and things like that, with Taft a close second. Truman does better in the self-service lifts. I get around and use all sorts of elevators, but I have not heard anybody yell "Hooray for Wallace" in any of them so far.

* * *

I do not get the connection between your statement that "people are afraid to express their minds" and your subsequent remark that the number who come right out in elevators and say, "Henry, I intend to vote for you." amazing. Do you imply that people are too scared to speak up anywhere except in crowded elevators. It would seem to me that elevators would be the last places a timid soul would sound off on politics, but you are not always very logical, so I will not try to follow you too completely.

* * *

In the meantime, Henry, check the people who are for you going up in elevators, subtract those who are for you going down and multiply by those who walk up. This will give you a good a line on the outcome as any deduction you are making now.

Yours truly,

ELMER.

There's a Reason

By TRUMAN TWILL

With the permission of today's readers, there will be a piece about the way pieces of this kind are written.

A few days ago we wrote about a mishap that caught the family car 'twixt wind and water and left it and its half-dozen occupants stranded miles from home. The reason we wrote about it was because it was the thing of greatest importance at the moment—the principle on which this department has been operating for a good many years.

But this time there was a flareback. A friend who knew of the mishap the day it happened picked up the paper the following Monday morning—only a weekend lapse afterward—and exclaimed, "Great jumping jeeps, Truman, my fingers, is that all the further you keep ahead of your deadline!"

Yes, that's all. There's a reason.

In the normal course of human events each life has in it each day one thing of no particular importance that is magnified by circumstance and becomes a thing of importance—a broken shoestrong, a pair of lost overshoes, a stolen car, the necessity of shoveling snow and so on. These are the things we write about.

The catch is that they happen one at a time. Thus they can be written about only one at a time. It works best that way. The only exceptions are the rare occasions when it becomes necessary to write an extra piece in preparation for a holiday or some special day—and the extra one is like pulling impacted teeth.

Thus today, the thing of no real particular importance being magnified by circumstance is the question of writing a piece for tomorrow (that's today for you, the reader). One piece after another has taken place, all part of the time-consuming daily routine.

Slightly different circumstances at this time might have produced a piece about the telephone, the most marvelous gadget ever devised for using up time; or a sprained back from shoveling snow; or income tax reports; or the whims the idiosyncrasies of a balky typewriter. But it didn't pan out that way.

That is why, dear reader, you are getting the blunt truth that what happens here is written never more than a day in advance and sometimes less than that, depending on circumstances. Tomorrow, who knows? Maybe there will be a piece about empty cans and bottles on the cellar steps, of a weird collection of rocks on a window sill. It all depends on circumstances.

SCHOOL OF RELIGION CLOSING FORUM SET

Rev. J. B. Holloway Speaker for Monday Night.

Rev. J. B. Holloway, pastor of Trinity Baptist church and president of the Marion County Council of Churches, will speak at the final forum hour of the Marion County School of Religion Monday night at First Evangelical and Reformed church. His address will follow final class sessions of the school, which has been conducted the last five Monday nights for church and Sunday school workers, sponsored by the Christian education committee of the Council of Churches.

Rev. Holloway has been active in interdenominational work ever since coming to Marion as pastor of Trinity church in February, 1942. During World War II he served as a chaplain in the U. S. navy in the Pacific and received honor citations. He was also in service in World War I. Last year, he was elected president of the Council of Churches.

Miss Martha Rayne To Take New Church Post Here Sunday

Miss Martha Mary Rayne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Rayne of Seville recently employed by First Evangelical and Reformed church here as director of Christian education, will be installed in her new position at First church tomorrow.

Sunday Jan. 25, she was commissioned to full time Christian service in the field of religious education in Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church at Seville. She comes to her position here after completing a master's degree in religious education at Eden Theological seminary at Webster Groves, Mo., in December. Formerly, she taught music and English in public schools, and during World War II, she served in the Marine Corps Women's Reserve.

For the installation service, Dr. E. E. Zechiel, superintendent of the Home for the Aged of the Evangelical and Reformed church at Upper Sandusky, and a former pastor of the church where Miss Payne attended at her home, will be the guest preacher.

Miss Rayne was graduated from the Wadsworth High school, where she was active in music, dramatics and other school activities, and was active in Trinity church in Wadsworth in church school and Christian Endeavor work. While attending Heidelberg college at Tiffin, she sang in the concert choir and was choir accompanist for a time. She was graduated in 1941 with a bachelor of music degree. Until 1943 she taught music and English in Highland-South Richland school in Defiance county, then enlisted in the Marine Corps Women's Reserve, and was a member of its band until December, 1945. In January, 1946, she entered Eden seminary. While there she worked at Fellowship center, taught in the weekday school of religious education, worked among Mexican migrants under the Home Missions Council of North America, served as director of religious education in St. Paul Evangelical and Reformed church in St. Louis, Mo., and spent two months in clinical training for theological students at City hospital in St. Louis.

MISS MARTHA MARY RAYNE

Edison Junior High Mothers Club Meets

The Mothers Study club of the Edison Junior High school P.-T. A. met Monday night at the home of Mrs. Albert Pace on Henry street, with Mrs. Merwyn Harruff and Mrs. Donald Huber assistant hostesses.

Mrs. Ervin Meyers presided for the meeting and conducted devotions. Members responded to roll call with Bible verses. Mrs. J. Ward presented the topic, "Promising Rebellion," and conducted a question and answer quiz. During the social hour, contest honors were won by Mrs. Meyers, Mrs. Louis Stanley, Mrs. Donald Huber and Mrs. Carl Flinchbaugh. Refreshments were served in keeping with the Valentine season. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Stanley of 328 Clinton street.

FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

Two events of the Westminster Fellowship of First Presbyterian church have been set for tonight and tomorrow. A potluck supper will be held by this young people's group at 6:15 tonight in the church social rooms. Installation of officers will be held at the youth service at 6:45 p. m. tomorrow. Those to be installed include Gregory Graham, Jill Pluchel Ernie Lowry, Clara Jane Fredericks, Jim Bain, Ruth Smith, Shirley Arbogast, Jo Ann May and Don Noggle. Advisors are Marion Chase, Miss Rebecca Grove, Harry C. Williams and Miss Marion Conley.

It is estimated that the walled terraces on Inca farms represented an investment of about $18,000 an acre in terms of modern labor costs.

CHURCHES TO PAY TRIBUTE TO SCOUTS

Services Set for Sunday and Next Week.

In observance of national Boy Scout week, several churches will pay honor to their Boy Scout troops tomorrow and next week. At Trinity Baptist church tomorrow, Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts of Troop No. 4, sponsored by the church, will be in uniform and will participate in the morning worship service. For the opening worship service of the high school department of Epworth Methodist church tomorrow morning, Boy Scout Orland Beveridge will preside. Thursday night there will be a court of honor ceremony for Scout Troop No. 3 and the Cub Scouts of Epworth church in the church social room following a covered dish supper at 6:30. Anyone interested in Scouting is invited to attend the Cub pack meeting following the supper, and the court of honor, it was stated.

Announcement will be made of a God and country Scout award presentation to Scout Wirt Robinson to be the following Sunday at the morning worship service at the church. Tomorrow at the evening service of worship of Emmanuel Baptist church, a recognition service of Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts will be held. Presentation of awards will be made to each boy who has won an achievement or advancement. Owen Meddies of the Harding area Boy Scout staff and leaders of Troop No. 39 of the church, Carl Ford, Carl Hughes, Paul McAllister, and Morris Collins, and Cub leaders, Richard Morris, and David Alspach, will be present to make the awards, and to take part in the service. Dr. C. E. Hershey, pastor, who has worked in Scouting a number of years, will present a special message on the 12 points of the Scout law. Parents of Scouts have a special invitation to be present, Dr. Hershey stated.

A special service at Lee Street Presbyterian church tomorrow morning will honor Boy Scout Troop No. 9 which is sponsored by the church and of which Richard Hogan is Scoutmaster. The troop will attend the service at 10:15 in a body, and Rev. George L. Fake will preach a special sermon on "There Is a Boy Here." Any Boy Scout other than those in Troop 9 wishing to attend has a special invitation to the service, it was stated.

Galion Pastor Takes Church at Medina

Special to The Star

GALION—Rev. Henry Young, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, North Union street, has accepted a call from St. Matthew's Lutheran church, Medina. He plans to leave Galion with his wife and three children, Richard, Rebecca and Mary, on March 1.

Rev. Young came to Galion over seven years ago to fill a vacancy made by the death of the late Rev. J. E. Albrecht. Prior to coming to Galion he had a pastorate at Botkins, O. Besides the Trinity Lutheran church here, Rev. Young has been in charge of St. Paul's Lutheran church in Leesville.

At Medina, Rev. Young faces a building program just started by the congregation of St. Matthew's.

Public Health Nurses Hired in Crawford Co.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — Miss Permelia Saum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Saum, Crestline, who passed the state nurses' board examinations made public this week, was employed today by the Crawford county health department as a public health nurse. She will be an addition to the staff.

The department also announced the recent appointment of Miss Marie Neel of Dennison as a health nurse to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Clifton Rorick, who resigned in January.

Religion According To What?

A Sermonette

By REV. D. H. HOCHSTETTLER

Pastor of First Evangelical United Brethren Church.

* * *

Text—"Looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith."

* * *

EVERY organization, whether it be political, social, religious, or other, is the length and shadow of a personality in whose mind and imagination the enterprise existed before the physical realization of the ideal finally crystallized. The great stores in the merchandising world, the great banking houses in the financial realm, the highly organized and efficient factory systems in the field of industry are singularly significant because they reflect the personality in whose mind they were first conceived.

The Christian faith as it is ours today is likewise the reflection of God's great plan for man as he revealed that plan in the Lord Jesus Christ, who in a very real sense is the "author and finisher of our faith." It is He who stands at the head of His great church today striving to bring into a living reality His great redemption and life everlasting which first had its concept in the eternal mind of God. It is the responsibility and obligation of all who consider themselves to be a part of that church to live according to the perfect law of Him whose we are and Whom we seek to serve.

There are constant threats which endanger the spiritual life and religious purity of the church which have their roots without the church but bear their vicious fruitage within it. It was ever thus. From the time that Paul said, "Come ye out and be ye separate," the church of believing people has met with conflict and persecution in its effort to duplicate within itself the image of the Christ. It is not acceptable to Him to offer excuses and reasons for not doing so, for in reality, there is no excuse nor reason which is worthy. The pattern and the ability to achieve is at our disposal, and if the world fails to see that pattern materialize into a real and vital religion in the church today it is only because that church has not utilized the powers for its achievement. We prove the sincerity of our profession by the degree to which we allow it to penetrate life itself and to what extent we allow it to express itself visibly. We advertise our loyalities to the world by our preferences and prove our earnestness by the tenacity with which we hold to religious convictions. An honest man is honest because honesty has become a controlling conviction with him. A just man is just because justice has become real to him. A man is a Christian because Christ is real to him and His will has become the controlling conviction of his life whereby he spends the rest of life growing to God and the world the "yes" he said to Him.

The greatest danger to life which would be lived according to the plan of its Founder is the willingness of those who profess it to fail to receive it in its entirety. All too often men have tasted and seen that the Lord is good but fail to enter into a complete experience of Him.

Religion according to Christ, according to His will and purpose is the goal of all Christian living. To gain it it must always be kept in mind that Christ is the Author and the Finisher and that in His plan there is slight room for the trivial "goods" of life with their insignificant harmlessness, but that a supreme emphasis must be placed upon the complete best of God and that the only stimulus to which we respond is influencing pressure of Him whose love constrains us.

Advice Given Home Owners on How To Avoid Breaks in Electrical System

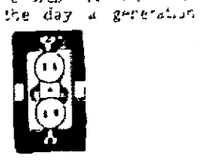
YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

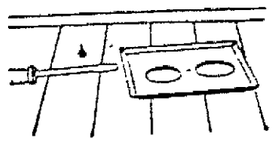
by W. Wadsworth Wood

Practically all homeowners take the electrical system for granted and never give it a thought until something goes wrong with it. This is a bad state of mind to get into when it comes to anything so essential to our present day mode of living. Twenty years ago the failure of electric current or service meant that we might not have light for awhile, but there was sure to be at least one or two gas outlets left in the average house, so it did not make a very great difference.

The picture is vastly different today. We rely upon the electrical system for light, for the heating plant, for the refrigerator, for the vacuum cleaner, the radio, for ironing, washing clothes and dishes, and in a great percentage of the newest homes for cooking. The fact is that if we had to go back to shoveling coal into the furnace, worrying about keeping ice in the refrigerator, ago; we would feel greatly impoverished. The convenience presented by electricity has crept up on us until we are almost entirely dependent upon it for our every comfort, and the system of wires which distributes the current through the house should receive far more attention than it actually gets.

sweeping the carpets with a broom, stoking a laundry stove for ironing and doing the other every-day chores that were the order of the day a generation





The number one rule for the homeowner is to have a supply of fuses on hand. There should be of the correct size and should be kept in the fuse box so that you do not have to conduct a search for them when needed. If a fuse continues to blow out frequently, the remedy is not a fuse of greater capacity, but an investigation of the cause.

Vacuum cleaners, floor-lamps, toasters, irons and radios, are usually connected to wall or base-plugs. Most people disconnect the appliance by jerking the plug at the end of the wire out of the socket instead of taking hold of the plug and pulling it out properly. The result is a gradual loosening of the small box which is in the wall and which is covered by the plate you see on the base-board or wall. This plate is purely ornamental, and you can remove the small screw which holds it to the box, and see how the box is fastened to the interior wall. Two thin screws, one at the top and one at the bottom of the box are the anchors. These should be tight and solid. If constant use has made them shaky, longer screws should be put in. If the piece of wood to which the box is fastened is weak or loose, it must be renailed firmly.

Naturally there is little if any strain or wear put upon the cables or wires in the walls or floors of a house, but there is plenty of wear and strain put upon the terminals which are in constant use. Keep these firm and solid, and you will avoid most of the minor electrical troubles.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

Basement Walls Mildewed

Q [illegible] the [illegible] basement [illegible] for [illegible] I [illegible] it [illegible] assembly or part [illegible] basement paint [illegible] paint [illegible] ago. We have had [illegible] before [illegible] the floor and the walls [illegible] and a powdery mildew [illegible] can be swept off, but mildew [illegible] to appear in spite of [illegible] mopping. I have [illegible] rugs around, but [illegible] to do any good. What else can I do?

A. Trisodium chloride is not [illegible] and property. The chemical [illegible] packed in sacks [illegible] a leather basket, which [illegible] placed on a [illegible] long enough to retain the [illegible] quefier. This liquid [illegible] stone that is absorbed [illegible] the air. The chemical [illegible] dissolved as it disappears, and the container emptied on the driveway or paths (it will kill vegetation, and is useful for keeping down weeds). After cleaning off the mildew, spray or wash the walls with a mildew-proofing preparation which is sold in the large cities in chain, department, hardware or paint stores, etc.

Furniture in Unheated Room

Q. We have a large ranch house which is not completed. At present we are heating with an oil heater, and would like to close up one bedroom for the winter to cut down on the heating expense. We would like to leave the furniture "as is" in this room. It is a walnut veneer set. Is there some sort of wax or something to apply to the furniture wood work to keep it from cracking? The room will be quite cold as there will be absolutely no heat in it.

A. Furniture may check from sudden changes in temperature or exposure to sunlight, but not so much from a steady cold. It may be a good plan to give the frames a very thin coat of paste wax, let this dry hard and then polish well. You also could place a handful of moth balls on the chair seats and on the bed, then cover the pieces to protect them from dust. The moth balls will keep mice away, but should be renewed whenever necessary.

Steaming Off Wall Paper

Q: We would like to take paper off our side walls with a steamer. But we would like to know if this will injure our ceilings, which are made of insulating board.

A: Too much steam might not be any good for the board. You might find it safer to speed up the removal with a commercial preparation made for the purpose. Ask for it at a well-stocked hardware store, or get it from a wallpaper dealer.

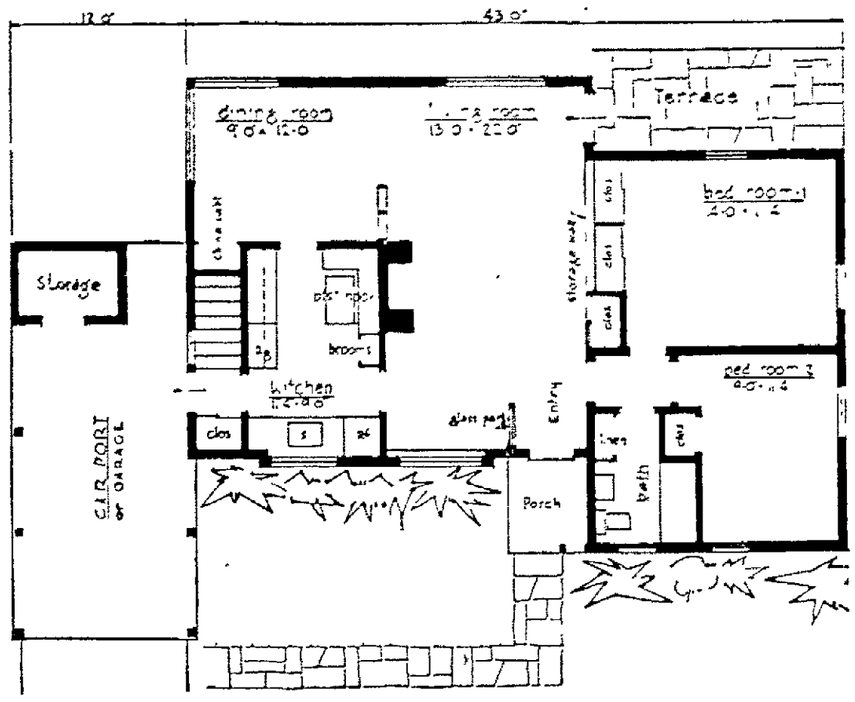
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



A modern cottage, plan 719 by Walter T. Anicka, 617 Forest Ave., Ann Arbor, Mich., this house was designed to contain all essential requirements for comfortable living for a family with limited budget. The house contains 1,006 square feet of floor space and comprises about 11,000 cubic feet of construction above grade. A part basement under the central portion of the house can accommodate recreation, heating and laundry space. For economy, conversion of carport to garage can be made later. The architect suggests an exterior of gray wood shingles or wide siding, white trim and a roof of dark asphalt shingles for contrast. The brick chimney is painted white.

Youth Committee Named by Grange

One candidate for membership was given the obligation at a meeting of Grand Prairie Grange Tuesday night. Paul Dasher, master, presided. A youth committee was named to be composed of Delmar Brewer, Delmar Risch and Dick Lucas, and three members reported ill, Mrs. Hosea Kelley, in the hospital with a fractured ankle, Mrs. Charles Brady, ill at home, and William Risch, ill of intestinal flu.

The literary program consisted of readings by Mrs. Blanch Lill and Emelie Pride, a playlet by William Hutchman and Harvey Brucker, and several contests with a prize going to Miss Louise Hinamon. Appointed on the refreshments committee for the next meeting, Feb. 17, are William Hutchman, Elmer Dean and Fred Hinamon.

CLOSE UNUSED ROOMS

Unused rooms rob the rest of the house of heat. They should be closed, cracks around the door sealed, and the radiator or warm air duct shut off.

INSTALLMENT XII

ALARMING dispatches poured to my desk in August 1938 as the crisis over Czechoslovakia again seemed imminent. Feverish peace negotiations were under way principally between Britain and Germany Walter Runciman, whom I had seen in Washington in 1937, had been sent by the British to Prague to mediate between the Czechs and the Sudeten Nazis At the same time Hitler was seemingly preparing an invasion of Czechoslovakia

Just prior to Prime Minister Chamberlain's departure on September 15, for the first of his series of personal talks with Hitler, the British foreign office suggested to Ambassador Kennedy that they would appreciate any comment the President might wish to make on this development At a press conference on that day, I said "The historic conference today between the prime minister of Great Britain and the chancellor of Germany is naturally being observed with the greatest interest by all nations which are deeply concerned in the preservation of peace"

As telegrams flowed into the department from Europe and tension heightened, I went repeatedly to the White House for visits with the President I likewise frequently sent Under Secretary Welles and Assistant Secretary Berle to the White House with information and comment. Ambassadors Bullitt and Kennedy telephoned me almost daily

Chamberlain went back to Germany on September 22 to see Hitler again As it became evident that the British and French governments were bringing strong pressure on the Czech government to yield to Hitler's demands, criticism mounted in the American press that Czechoslovakia was being sold out to Hitler

KENNEDY TELEPHONED me from London on September 24 about an apparent split in the British cabinet. Chamberlain, he said, believed in "peace at any price," while some members of the cabinet said they did not "want to take any more back talk from Hitler" and believed they would have "to fight anyhow." He said Colonel Charles Lindbergh, who was enormously impressed by Herman Goering's air force, had been called in by the British for consultation. Lindbergh had already reported to us that he believed Germany was easily capable of combatting a combined air force of all other European countries

That same day Bullitt telegraphed from Paris his belief that some effort should be made by us to maintain peace, even if it were unsuccessful. He suggested an appeal by the President to the British, French, Italian, German, and Polish chiefs of state to send representatives to The Hague to settle the crisis, and that we should indicate our willingness to be represented

On the following day, the 25th, Wilbur J Carr, our minister to Prague, who had been assistant secretary of state when I entered the department, telegraphed a plea from President Benes that President Roosevelt urge the British and French not to desert Czechoslovakia and allow her destruction, thereby bringing closer a great conflict embracing not only Czechoslovakia but also the world

THE PRESIDENT AND I had already been discussing what action to take. The President was prepared to make personal appeals to the heads of the European government concerned My own thought was that, while I did not oppose the making of those appeals, I was not convinced that the results would justify them I said to the President I felt that the evidence we had been receiving was overwhelmingly that Germany was armed to the teeth and was bent on widespread aggression at all hazards, and that nothing short of a sufficient amount of force or complete capitulation would halt Hitler in the pursuit of his plans. This meant that any steps to deal with Hitler short of a suitable force would necessarily be of an appeasement nature and purely temporary

I feared lest too ardent steps by the President should throw us into the same appeasement camp with Chamberlain and sooner or later attract the same obloquy that Chamberlain received I thought such steps might mislead peaceful nations into believing that we thought no other course possible. Furthermore, the very success of such efforts could be dangerous, since both nations might then believe that the danger of war had passed and hence there was no urgent need for rapid military preparations on the broad scale necessary to cope with the inevitable German danger. My view was that the hair-trigger was set so far as Hitler's ... and determination were concerned There was the added danger that frantic appeals to Hitler might encourage him to ... ready ultimatum ... him that no one wished to oppose him ... he would not ... that step by step he could achieve all he wanted Moreover I had no confidence whatever in any pledge of Hitler ... I thought that important steps ... were being forced to Hitler ... to get a pledge from him ... seemed to me a mockery Welles ... kept pushing the President on ... while I kept saying how to stop ...

THE PRESIDENT, HOWEVER believed with Bullitt that something should be done even if it were not successful He said to me "It can't do any harm if it's safe to urge peace until the last moment."

With the President decided on making his appeals we strove to choose the most telling moment to dispatch them For some days we had been preparing text after text, with Welles and Berle doing most of the drafting, and the President taking a considerable hand himself

On the night of Sept. 25 we put the finishing touches to the President's message We strove desperately to make it as forceful as words could make it Even after the final draft had been agreed to, the President made a few changes in pencil Then at one o'clock on the morning of September 26, the President sent it in identical messages direct to Hitler and Benes, and, through me, to Chamberlain and Daladier We also sent it to our diplomatic missions in Warsaw and Budapest, with instructions to communicate it to the Polish and Hungarian foreign offices Poland and Hungary had added their voices and menaces to the crisis by claiming sections of Czechoslovakia

"On behalf of the 130 millions of people of the United States of America," said the President, "and for the sake of humanity everywhere I most earnestly appeal to you not to break off negotiations in a peaceful, fair and constructive settlement of the questions at issue

"I earnestly repeat that so long as negotiations continue, differences may be reconciled Once they are broken off reason is banished and force asserts itself"

We then waited almost breathlessly for the replies We had not long to wait for three of them. That same day, September 26, Benes, Daladier, and Chamberlain stated their complete accord with the President's views and their willingness to negotiate for peace These were immediately made public, so as to be before the public before Hitler's scheduled speech that evening. But Hitler's reply had not arrived, and this was the one we were most anxiously awaiting.

EUROPE WAS MOBILIZING. Kennedy telephoned me from London that the British government had assured the French of their support in the event of war. Also, that Chamberlain had informed Hitler that his demands—they increased each time Chamberlain saw him—could not be accepted but asking him to continue negotiations I asked Kennedy whether the British believed the French were in very good shape to fight. Kennedy could not give me a positive answer, but he said that the British, "as they always do, feel that they can rise to the occasion," that they were alerting their fleet and had called territorial troops to arms.

WE NOW HAD TO DECIDE ... the step to take Hitler ... that a second ... be sent by the President ... to Hitler ... meeting ... to be ... to send a representative ... such a conference at The ... Hague ... that previously ... Premier ... We ... agreed with the ... ...ments ... their support ... President's appeal of the ... ...On the afternoon ... September 27 we sent ... ...ter ... representatives ... ...other governments to ... ...Those ... ...appeals to Germany ... Czechoslovakia ... Nineteen governments ... ...of them ... Latin ... ...acted favorably on the suggestion

We also sent a telegram to Ambassador Phillips in Rome conveying a personal and confidential message from the President to Mussolini, asking Mussolini to help in the continuation of the efforts to arrive at an agreement on the questions at issue by negotiation or by other pacific means rather than be resort to force"

President Roosevelt decided to send a further appeal this time addressed to Hitler alone Drafted by Welles this went forward on the evening of September 27 It suggested an immediate conference in some neutral spot in Europe with all nations directly interested in the Czech controversy participating It declared that continued negotiations remain the only way by which the immediate problem can be disposed of upon any lasting basis"

WHILE WE WERE WAITING tensely for Hitler's reply British Ambassador Lindsay came in at my request after having given us a copy of Chamberlain's latest communications to Hitler and Mussolini I said to the ambassador, "I called you in to say that in the awful event of war, which looks very threatening, I want your government to know that our government and nation will have no policy or purpose to supplant existing established British trade ... in parts of the world ... whatever we might do in the way ... the trade of numerous ... I might mention ... have no intention to ... trade by taking ... advantages for ... the war and Great Britain's ... I The ambassador ... moved by my action

... the afternoon of September 28 ... the world seemed ... the balance Hitler ... September and Daladier and ... to meet with him the ... day at Munich to settle ... War was at least ... postponed

WHETHER THE ACTIONS ... the President brought ... result ... impossible to say Unquestionably they exerted ... able influence ... On ... 28 British Ambassador ... brought me a letter for the President from King George VI of England answering the President's invitation to the king and queen to visit the United States during their visit to Canada in 1939 I feel that I must say how greatly I welcomed your initiative in the recent crisis" the King wrote "I have little doubt that they contributed largely to the preservation of peace

But to me the Munich agreement seemed only a momentary solution As between the alternatives of keeping peace by facing Hitler with force or by capitulating, the latter had been chosen Hitler had not made war because he had got all he wanted without firing a single shot Czechoslovakia now lay defenseless before him He could bide his time and pick it off like a bird on a fodder pole Britain and France had receded before him There was something heroic however misguided — in Prime Minister Chamberlain's devotion to peace and the feverish efforts and personal sacrifice he was willing to make to secure it but to Hitler it was a manifestation of weakness I believed, therefore as I had said to the French ambassador the month before, that only a "temporary peace" could come from such steps Chamberlain called it "peace in our time," but the time was short.

BABSON EXPLAINS MARKET REACTION

By ROGER W. BABSON
Written for The United Press

BOSTON, Feb. 7—Three reasons underlie the recent stock market lows. These are:

1. Each year as living costs and everything else goes up in price, investors have less money left to use for buying stocks.

2. Most of the stocks today are bought by well-to-do people in the 60 to 80 per cent tax bracket. These people if they buy stocks don't have more than 2½ per cent left even though stocks pay 6 per cent in dividends or even more. Hence they are buying non-taxable bonds instead of stocks.

3. Some day there will be a bust and every year we are getting nearer to this time. Hence, each month more people are gradually changing from bulls to bears.

The price of stocks depends upon supply and demand, the same as the price of beef and everything else and not upon quality and earnings. If there are more buyers than sellers, then stock prices go up. If there are more sellers than buyers, then stock prices go down.

Actually most stocks are safer and better today then they have been for many years, but due to the reasons given above, few people are now buying stocks. Hence when some rich man dies and his stock holdings are forced on the market to be sold, prices necessarily go down.

In view of the above situation and the foreign outlook, the safest course is to have one half of your resources in attractive convertible bonds and the other half in cash. Then you need not worry what happens.

Opposition to Price Controls Stiffens

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—Prospects that tobogganing commodity prices may be the signal for a general deflationary movement promised today to stiffen congressional opposition to administration demands for price and rationing controls.

From several quarters there were optimistic statements on the grain supply situation following three days in which prices of these commodities tumbled the limit.

The production and marketing administration's grain branch said snow cover has protected winter wheat crops and there are few indications of any major damage.

PMA also reported that Europe's acreage in winter grain for harvesting in 1948 is likely to be larger than in the past two years.

Bernard M. Baruch, advisor to presidents, commented cautiously in a telegram to Sen. Robey (R) of Vermont, "that commodities show a tendency to soften," and added:

"Were that to come about the need for control would be less pressing."

PROMOTED GENERAL BACK ON OLD JOB

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan was back on the same old job today—just plain military aide to President Truman.

For a few hours yesterday Vaughan thought he had been promoted. He announced to newsmen he had been named "chief" armed forces aide to the President.

A statement from White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross dispelled the illusion. Ross said: "There seems to have been some misapprehension. There is no ranking aide. There will be three aides, each representing one of the three coordinated branches of the service."

This was grounds for some disappointment on the part of Col. Louis Renfrow, Vaughan's assistant. The general had "promoted" Renfrow to military aide.

1,700 Attend Mansfield Annual C. of C. Banquet

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., Feb. 7 — Seventeen hundred persons attended the thirty-sixth annual Mansfield Chamber of Commerce banquet last night, a record for the affair.

Dr. Rees Tulloss, president of Wittenberg college, urged world leadership by the United States and said:

"The Marshall plan, wisely and constructively administered, is the only thing barring a collapsed and Communistic Europe."

Among scores of out-of-city guests were Gov. and Mrs. Thomas J. Herbert.

LIONS EXPAND SIGHT PROGRAM

Work with Blind To Be Carried on Throughout County.

The Marion Lions club, at a recent board of directors meeting at Hotel Harding, approved a recommendation of the club sight conservation committee to expand the work in the field of sight saving and sight work to include all of Marion county with the exception of Prospect. Heretofore, the work of testing eyes and buying glasses for those persons unable to purchase their own and helping the blind people was carried on in the schools and with families only in the city.

Program Expanded

Robert Morrison, club president, announced that the success of the recently held annual charity bazaar made possible the expansion of the charitable work into towns in rural areas of Marion county. Prospect has its own Lions club which carries on the same kind of work there.

The proceeds of the bazaar which is held by the club each year go 100 per cent for charitable purposes with a large portion of the money received going for the sight conservation and blind work which is the primary object of the Lions clubs throughout the country.

Details for the plan in the county are being worked out by the committee in cooperation with the city and county health offices as to the method to be used in processing the needy cases.

Other Club Projects

Work done in the past by the club in the project has included the white cane program, also the rehabilitation of the blind, in which they have set up some in self-supporting businesses, the purchase of glasses for charity cases, the purchase of an electric eye-testing chart for each school in the city, the purchase of a Betts-Telebinocular eye testing device which was used in a school survey and various other things needed for the work.

Members of the sight conservation committee are Cecil W. Gabler, Wilfred Schweinfurth, Robert Willey, Dr. George Pfleiderer, James Lytle, Dr. W. A. Dennis and Ivan Barnhart.

County Basketball Tourney Scheduled To Start Saturday

The Marion county basketball tournament will get under way next Friday night with two games each scheduled for the New Bloomington and Morral high school gymnasiums.

Drawings for positions held in the superintendent's office this morning resulted in the following first-round cards:

Waldo vs. Meeker and Prospect vs. New Bloomington in the New Bloomington gym with the first game scheduled to start at 7:30 p. m.

Martel vs. Green Camp and Claridon vs. Kirkpatrick in the Morral gym starting at 7:30 p. m.

Top 4 Seeded

The teams ending in the top four places at the end of the league season last night—Pleasant, Caledonia, Morral and LaRue—were seeded and drew byes for the first night's play.

Winner of the Waldo-Meeker game will play Pleasant on the New Bloomington floor Saturday night in the quarter-finals, and Morral will meet the winner of the Prospect-New Bloomington game there in the second game that night.

Caledonia will face the winner of the Martel-Green Camp game, and LaRue will meet the winner of the Claridon-Kirkpatrick game on the Morral court Saturday.

Semi-finals will be held at New Bloomington and Morral Monday Feb. 24, and the finals will be played in the New Bloomington gym Saturday, Feb. 28.

The consolation tournament starts on the two courts Feb. 23 and will end at New Bloomington Feb. 28. Winner of the consolation round will be the team the county entry in the district B tournament which starts at Westerville, March 2. Winner or loser of the tournament finals will be the other two entries.

All games are scheduled to start at 7:30 p. m. and the doors open at 6:00 p. m. The New Bloomington gym will have a crowd of about 700, and the Morral gym 600.

All tickets (children and adults) to the regular tournament games are 75 cents and may be bought at the gate in each evening's play. Tickets to the quarterfinals and finals of the consolation tourney also cost 75 cents, but tickets to the opening round and semi-finals games in the consolation matches cost 50 cents.

Officials for the games at New Bloomington will be Robert Hamon of Upper Sandusky and C. Hopkins of Delaware. Lloyd Cook of Marysville and H. W. Stahl of Piqua will referee the Morral games.

ERIE ASSOCIATION TO CONVENE HERE

Two-Day Session Scheduled by General Chairmen.

Final plans are under way for a two-day annual meeting of the Association of General Chairmen, Standard Railroad Organization of the Erie Lines System, to be held here Feb. 18-19. A banquet for both railroad men and women and their friends is being arranged for Wednesday evening, Feb. 18, to be held at 6 o'clock at Wesley Methodist church. About 250 are expected to be present.

Arrangements here are in charge of D. J. Finley, acting president, local chairman for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and J. E. Sheehe, acting secretary, local chairman for the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks.

Tickets for the banquet can be obtained from any local chairman representing railroad employes on the Erie railroad at Marion. Reservations are to be made not later than Saturday, Feb. 14. Dr. Edwin A. Brown, pastor of Wesley Methodist church, is to be guest speaker for the dinner program.

Present for the two-day meeting as a principal speaker will be J. C. Porter of Hornell, N. Y., general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Erie System, and also chairman of the Association of General Chairmen.

Ohio Sheriff Who Helped Hunt E. D. Young, Dies

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7—Tuscarawas County Sheriff John McIntosh, 47, died early today as the result of injuries suffered Feb. 5 when his car was struck by a train.

McIntosh, a Democrat, was completing his second term as sheriff and was a candidate for reelection. He was a former president of the Buckeye Sheriffs' association.

The sheriff was elected to his post in 1940. He succeeded Sheriff Wayne Host, who also was killed in an automobile accident.

Last summer Sheriff McIntosh took part in the hunt for the slayer of Mrs. Zora Hess Gerbes. He entered the case after a warrant was filed for Edwin D. Young, now held in jail here. Young formerly lived in New Philadelphia and had been in the custody of Sheriff McIntosh on at least two occasions.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

DANNY KAYE AND VIRGINIA MAYO, above, are the stars in Technicolor comedy, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," which will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace theater.

Drama of Mexican Gold at Ohio

A stirring rugged drama of Mexican gold, "Treasure of Sierra Madre" starring Humphrey Bogart with Walter Huston, Tim Holt and Bruce Bennett, is now playing through Monday at the Ohio theater.

Set against the background of scenic Mexico and adapted from a novel by B. Traven, the film is being hailed as one of the half dozen in recent years which genuinely deserve to be called great.

The story is of three Americans, all stranded in Tampico, who set out to strike it rich. They meet in a flop-house, pool their lottery winnings, and head for the hills. After the gold dust begins piling up, greed and district creeps in until there is gunplay. Finally Dobbs (Humphrey Bogart) goes it alone with all the treasure, but the trip back to civilization turns into a nightmare of trouble.

"You Were Meant For Me," a heartwarming romantic drama of the 1920's which co-stars Jeanne Crain and Dan Dailey, will be shown for seven days starting Tuesday.

The film unfolds the story of a starry-eyed small-town girl, played by Jeanne Crain, and a brash and sophisticated "big name" bandleader, portrayed by Dan Dailey. It is the story of their high-flying romance, and of the challenge that faces them when they are brought to earth with the crash of '29. Featured in the supporting cast are Oscar Levant and Barbara Lawrence.

"Dead Reckoning," Thriller at State

"Dead Reckoning," a mystery thriller starring Humphrey Bogart and Lizabeth Scott, and "Lone Hand Texan," with Charles Starrett will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State theater.

In the former, Bogart plays a tough paratroop captain who sets out on a hunt for the murderers of his buddy, who had previously been implicated in the murder of the wealthy husband of Coral Chandler, played by Lizabeth Scott.

Tuesday and Wednesday, the billing will be "Lady In the Lake" starring Robert Montgomery and Audrey Totter, and "Ding Dong Williams" with Glenn Vernon and Marcy McGuire.

The attractions billed for Thursday through Saturday are "Deadline At Dawn" and "Death Valley." The former stars Susan Hayward and Paul Lukas, and heading the cast in the latter are Robert Lowery and Helen Gilbert.

Joe Palooka Picture At Marion Theater

A comedy-drama, "Joe Palooka in the Knockout" starring Leon Errol with Joe Kirkwood in the title role, and a murder mystery "The Crime Doctor's Gamble" with Warner Baxter, will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Marion theater.

In the former in a "flashback" story, Leon Errol, as manager Knobby Walsh, tells how his fighter Palooka, played by Joe Kirkwood, threatens to quit the ring because he believes he's responsible for the death of another pugilist, who mysteriously succumbs after being knocked out by Joe. Informed that the dead fighter was really murdered, Palooka and his friends endeavor to unravel the mystery. The story in the latter plunges the Crime Doctor into the mysteries of Paris, and involves him in a scheme to frame a handsome young writer for the murder of his own father.

Billed as a double feature for Wednesday and Thursday are two re-released films, "Let Us Live" and "Golden Boy." The former stars Maureen O'Sullivan, Henry Fonda and Ralph Bellamy, and heading the cast in the latter are Barbara Stanwyck, Adolphe Menjou and William Holden.

"Let Us Live" is a drama of everyday life and everyday people and tells of a young taxi driver who, when a murder is committed by young bandits, is identified as the leader of the gang. "Golden Boy" is the drama of a youth who abandons his art as a great musician to win quick success as a prize-ring killer.

Friday and Saturday, the double feature will be "Rainbow Over the Rockies" and "Perilous Waters."

Danny Kaye Stars As Walter Mitty

Danny Kaye is starred as Walter Mitty, a meek little fellow who becomes a hero in spite of himself, in the fantastic technicolor comedy, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty." It will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace theater.

Starred with Danny Kaye in the film which is based on James Thurber's popular short story is Virginia Mayo, while Boris Karloff, Fay Bainter, Ann Rutherford and the Goldwyn Girls head the supporting cast.

"The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" is the story of a highly imaginative young man bored by the dull routine of daily life, his escape from that routine, and his subsequent problem when one of his favorite dreams becomes reality. His daring adventures, which are a result of dreams, include him being a skilled surgeon, a hard-bitten sea captain, a western avenger, an icy-nerved gambler and other heroic figures, all exact opposites of the real life "Mitty." In his "real life" sequences, he tangles with Boris Karloff as master menace.

Billed as a double feature for Thursday, Friday and Saturday are "Crossfire" starring Robert Young, Robert Mitchum and Robert Ryan and "Louisiana."

An action-mystery thriller, "Crossfire" is the story of the murder of a Jewish ex-serviceman and the brilliant work of a detective who, without any clues to work on, tracks down the murderer. The stories of the many suspects offer only a mass of contradictory evidence. However, the case is finally cracked when the murderer, in cooperating with the authorities, overreaches himself and falls into a clever trap.

Robert Young plays the detective whose grandfather, an Irish Catholic, was the victim of a senseless murder. Robert Mitchum portrays a sergeant who shields his friend from the police until his innocence is practically assured, and Robert Ryan is seen in the role of a prejudiced ex-army man.

JEANNE CRAIN AND DAN BAILEY, above, are the co-stars of the heartwarming romantic drama, "You Were Meant For Me," which will be shown for seven days starting Tuesday at the Ohio theater.

LITTLE Dick "Ritchie" Wolfe is one of the brighter players in a bright Harding Reserve team . . . . Ritchie is a smooth ball handler and an aggressive player . . . . Last night he counted but one point against Galion, but his presence was felt during the time he was in the game. He holds the team together. Last night Ritchie was bothered with a touch of bronchitis . . . If he weren't so small—about five-feet-six—Coach Pete Howison might have sent him up to the varsity.

Two other bright spots in the reserve machine are Bill Buckingham, who counted 17 in the reserve game and played some in the varsity game, and Tom Taylor, who netted 12 for the reserves and also saw some action in the second game of the evening . . . . The varsity has already raided the reserve squad for Merle Daum and Dick Leffler, both sophomores . . . Next year's varsity should go to town if the record the reserves have piled up this season means anything . . . They've won 10 and lost but two—both to Columbus West.

HARDING PREXIES SHADE GALION TIGERS, 31-27

Take Nip and Tuck Game With 12-Point Last-Quarter Rally

By BILL MURPHY

Harding Prexies extended their consecutive win streak to two last night at Edison gym as they eked out a 31 to 27 win over the Galion Tigers.

Harding had some tough luck on rubber shots and lay-ups in the first two periods, in which each team scored 13 points, and in the second two frames, they made six fielders and six fouls for a total of 18.

Dick Riddle, who started the game at center instead of his usual spot at forward, was top for the Presidents, as he looped three fielders and seven fouls for a 13-point total, while Bob Pollock swished the nets often enough to grab seven tallies in pacing the Tigers.

Ray Swt, Leo Tuscan, Gerald Thatcher, and Leo Smith each flipped four points to rank second in Galion scoring, while Jim Coss was second high for Harding with eight points, made on four two-pointers.

Ashland Next

With the second home game of three in a row, coming up on Tuesday, and with wins over Delaware and Galion tucked away, the Prexies should be "up" when they meet Ashland.

The A's will come here with a good team, but not an unbeatable one—as Mansfield proved—and the local boys, with all of their flukes out of their systems, should make a game of it.

Last night's win is the fifth for the Prexies against seven defeats and places the red and white clad courtsters in a position to balance the record at seven won and an equal number of losses, if they can just topple Ashland and Bucyrus in the next two games.

Scores First

Dick Leffler drew first blood for Harding last night on a neat fielder from mid-court, followed by a tip-in shot by Bob Fink, who scored first for the Tigers. Dick Riddle then sunk six points, and Jim Rea a gift shot, total nine points at the end of the first period of play.

In the second canto, Rea and Riddle each flipped successful free throws, and Jim Coss got a deuce, as the half ended in a 13-point deadlock.

Third and fourth quarters were a repetition of the first two, with the game getting a little rough, and Harding pushing ahead to win by four points.

Harding boasted a five-point lead at one time in the last frame, but the lead was cut to three by the final gun.

Bill Buckingham, high with 17 tallies, Tom Taylor, 12, and Roger Andrews, with 10 points, gave a demonstration of classy basketball playing, as they led the Vice Presidents to their tenth win in knocking off the Tiger Cubs from Galion, 58 to 31.

MARYSVILLE, Feb. 7—A last quarter rally fell short by one point as the Monarchs dropped a non-league contest to Bellefontaine High, 41-40 here last night.

Bellefontaine took a five point lead early in the first quarter, holding the slim margin at the half and adding but two additional points in the third period to lead 35-28 going into the last canto.

The Monarchs, closing fast, piled up 12 points to 6 for the visitors before the final gun cut short the rally. The Bellefontaine Reserves had an easier time of it, taking the Marysville juniors 32-24.

Nine more boys have turned out for the A.A.U. Golden Gloves boxing tournament to be held here March 15, 17, ad 19, Jack Bray, publicity chairman announced.

This raises the total to past the 60 mark, an unusually high number for this early in the training.

The nine new boys will be fighting in four different classes. They are Charles Farina of Galion, last year's runner up, and W. H. Glenn of Marion, middleweights; Jim Boxer, welterweight; Harold Waits, Charles Hennessee, and Jack Nolan, lightweights; Alfred Doss, Robert Lowery and Ralph While, paperweights.

Cardington Pirates Defeat Iberia, 63-39

Special to The Star

IBERIA, Feb. 7—Cardington's rampaging cagers turned back the Iberia quint here last night, 66-39. Yake and Curl, high scoring forwards for the Cardington cagers, combined last night to push 44 points through the hoop as they snared 25 and 19 points respectively. Maxwell, from his center spot, helped out with another 13 tallies for the Pirates, while Hendershot paced the losers with 14 markers.

The young Carris made it a clean sweep by winning 36-13.

Iberia will try to break their losing streak tonight when they play host to the Spartans from Sparta.

B-G TAKES DAYTON; MIAMI OVER RESERVE

Capitol Stops Heidelberg and Butler Drops Ohio U.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 7—Bowling Green and Dayton dreamed up their own rules in an experimental college basketball game last night.

The Bee-Gees, who were favored by something like 20 points, finally came out with a 71-66 decision by staking a blistering last-half rally.

Coaches of the two teams agreed upon these rule variations:

(1) Each player was allowed three personal fouls in each half, and

(2) All jump balls were moved to the center circle or to the nearest free throw circle.

While the officials were tooting 59 fouls, three players collected the maximum number under the improvised setup.

Perhaps the new rules didn't have anything to do with it, but the game was tighter than a new pair of shoes. The lead changed side 12 times and the count was deadlocked five times. Bowling Green managed to eke out a narrow lead about 10 minutes from the final gun and stayed ahead. Dayton led, 38-27, at half-time.

Bob Brown netted 25 points as Miami trounced Western Reserve in a Mid-American Conference contest, 53-44. Miami had a 31-22 halftime margin and never was headed after that.

Capital stayed in the race for the Ohio Conference crown by clopping Heidelberg, 54-46. Center Frank Radioff hit for 15 points to help overcome Heidelberg's 25-24 intermission advantage.

Ohio university played without its ace scorer, Dick Schrider, who was benched by bolls, while Butler was winning, 47-42. The Ohioans held a 22-19 halftime margin, although Ralph "Buckshot" O'Brien of Butler made 13 points.

Ohio colleges have cooked up a 20-game program tonight, with Ohio State traveling to Minnesota in a Big Nine conference fray.

UPPER VETS TO MEET DETROIT CLOWNS MONDAY

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Feb. 7—The Upper Sandusky Vets will meet the Detroit Clowns on the Upper High basketball floor at 7:30 p. m. Monday, in a benefit game for the Rams' Booster club.

The lineup for the Clowns will include Tiny Reichert who can reach the basket rim standing flat-footed in his size 20 shoes, Gene Miller, Don Davis, Charley Gooch and other well known stars.

Francis "Fruitcake" Lenhart, Vets manager say the local team will be at full strength for this game with Koehler, Cavanaugh, Wilson, Rife, Leser, Tenwalde, Warner and Smalley all ready for action.

A preliminary game will match the Baldridge Tires, of Upper Sandusky, with the Ex-His from nearby Sycamore.

EDISON CAGERS BEAT SPARTA HANDILY, 49-36

Special to The Star

EDISON, Feb. 7—Edison cagers defeated Sparta, 49-36, here last night. Maynard Goare led Edison with 20 and Worline and Shipman made the bulk of the rest of the winner's score with 15 and 12 points. Belcher and Harris paced the losers with 13 and 11.

The Edison Reserves made it a clean sweep, winning 30-25.

Edison entertains Kirkpatrick tonight.

It's Moving Time For Bobo Newsom

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—It's moving time again for pitcher Bobo Newsom. The New York Yankees say they can't find a place for the 38-year-old veteran next season.

The talkative Bobo, who has pitched for eight different major league teams during 20 years with organized baseball, has been offered to any club for $1.

Actually, this is an unconditional release, but Newsom is a 10-year man in the majors and waivers must be asked. The dollar payment would make it legal, but if Bobo refused to join the claiming club he would be a free agent.

KITTY HAWK PLANE MAY COME HOME

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Feb. 7 — The flimsy machine of wood and cloth in which the Wright brothers made aviation history 44 years ago, may come back to the United States after all.

The late Orville Wright, who died Jan. 30 at 76, decided he wanted it that way in 1943, a letter found among his private papers disclosed yesterday.

In reply, the former director of Kensington Science Museum in London, where the famed Kitty Hawk plane has remainded for 20 years, agreed the craft belonged in the country where it was built and flown.

But, Wright's will—written in 1937—bequeathed the Kitty Hawk to the London institution "unless before my decease I personally in writing have asked its withdrawal from that museum."

Return of the Kitty Hawk probably will be made, said E. E. B. Mackintosh, former Kensington museum director, if Wright's letter "fits in with the terms of the will from a legal point of view."

When—and if—the fragile little contraption, which Orville flew to fame Dec. 17, 1903, at Kitty Hawk, N. C., is returned to the United States it will end a bitter feud which began in 1925.

Smithsonian Institution officials then claimed priority in capacity to fly for a machine designed by Samuel Pierpont Langley when he was institution secretary.

Enraged, Wright removed the Kitty Hawk plane to the Kensington museum in 1928. The dispute was not resolved to Orville Wright's satisfaction until 1943, the year he wrote the letter found yesterday.

Caledonia, Meeker, Morral, Kirkpatrick And Martel Win Final Loop Encounters

The county basketball league wound up the season last night with Caledonia, Meeker, Morral, Kirkpatrick, and Martel winning the final league encounters.

The county league tournament, however, remains to be played and the hoopsters haven't yet put away their rags. Drawings for positions in the tournament was held in the county superintendent's office this morning and the schedule appears on page one.

Four top teams are Pleasant Caledonia, Morral and LaRue. They were seeded in the drawings.

Caledonia clinched second place in the county loop with a slam-bang 62-25 win over Prospect their tenth of the season against a single loss to Pleasant. Kenny Comstock paced the winners with 21 to bring his total to 225 and top the league scoring title. Robertson, Jaggers and Ray all scored eight or more. Ralph Long led Prospect with nine. The Caledonia Reserves won, 26-19.

Meeker earned a fifth-place tie with Waldo by downing Claridon, 56-33, to score their sixth win in 11 starts. Meeker forwards Yost and Williams scored 16 and 12 points to lead the attack and center Dale Irey paced the losers with 10. Meeker led all the way. The Meeker Reserves won, 29-23.

Morral Drops Waldo

Morral handed Waldo a 58 to 23 setback last night on the Morral hardwoods as they retained the third place spot in county league standing, while Waldo settled for a fifth place tie. The Morral hoopsters finished their regular games with a record of 9-2. Fred McCumber, 15, Jim Weston, 13, Dick Granlee, 11, and Dick Baer, 10, were the main point-getters for the Morral combine. Chuck Heimlich, on four two-pointers, was high man for Waldo. Morral's Jayvees beat the Waldo second stringers by a 44-20 count.

Jones Counts 28

Jones flipped in 28 points to lead Kirkpatrick to a 57-31 win over Green Camp and extended his 11-game total to 185. Kirk led all the way and ended the season with five wins and six league losses. Roetiger paced the losers with six. They ended the season with one win and 10 losses. The Green Camp Reserves won, 36-31.

Martel won their first game of the season, downing New Bloomington, 43-35, to make the cellar position a trio of teams—Martel, New Bloomington and Green Camp—with a 1-10 record. The game was tight into the third quarter when New Bloomington trailed by but one point, but Martel rallied to win going away. Don Johnson paced New Bloomington with 22, and Martel's big gun Manring, who counted 24 scored his team's entire fourquarter score—12 points. Martel seventh and eighth graders won, 34-23.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—Selected rails and industrials tilted moderately toward recovery in today's dull stock market although many issues maintained an indifferent trend.

Improved tendencies were attributed mainly to mild short covering and other buying based on the thought the list was due for some technical revival after the decline in sympathy with sharply declining commodities. Skeptics viewed business and international problems continued to hold down trim accounts.

Dealings were slow from the opening on but fractional advances predominated near the final hour.

Supported were Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Great Northern Railway, Chesapeake & Ohio, Illinois Central, U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Deere, American Telephone, American Smelting, Johns-Manville, Standard Oil (NJ) and Gulf Oil. Hesitant were Owens-Illinois, American Airlines, Boeing, Electric Power & Light, Kennecott and Phelps Dodge.

TWO NEW RESERVE UNITS ORGANIZED

Marion and Marysville Officers in Command.

Two new organized Reserve Corps units have been organized in the Marion area, it was announced today by Captain John B. Weaver, officer in charge of the local area. They are the 9815th Replacement company commanded by Captain Darwin E. Boughter of Marysville, and the 9986th Engineer Depot company, in command of Major Edward D Halsey of Marion.

Captain Weaver, unit instructor, stated that enlisted men are eligible to join the Enlisted Reserve corps and emphasized that joining the corps in no way constitutes a call to active duty. Enlistments will be taken at the office of the unit instructor at 131-133 West Center street.

Word has been received at the local office that approval for the expansion of the first four ground and service type units of the Organized Reserve Corps to Class "A" organized status has been granted by the War department. Expansion of these units to the Class "A" level, which means they have at least 80 per cent of their authorized commissioned personnel and 40 per cent of their authorized enlisted strength, marks a major step in implementation of the Army Ground Forces program for peacetime development of an adequately organized and trained civilian reserve force, the captain states.

Authorization of the Class "A" units marks the first time there has been Organized Reserve Corps units up to strength in both officer and enlisted men. Prior to World War II, reserve units existed with officer strength only.

Begun in 1946, the new reserve program calls for organization of 8,364 units of the ground combat arms and administrative and technical services, varying in size from platoons or detachments to divisions.

SENTENCED TO MARYSVILLE

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Feb. 7—Miss Lila M. Doughty, 40-year-old real estate dealer, yesterday was sentenced by an indefinite term in the women's reformatory at Marysville by Judge Louis J. Schneider after she had been convicted on an embezzlement charge. Prosecutor Carson Hoy said Miss Doughty was charged with obtaining $1,000 as a downpayment on a real estate deal and then refusing to refund the money when the deal was not completed.

DE VALERA TO KEEP POST IN IRELAND

By The Associated Press

DUBLIN, Feb. 7 — Eamon De Valera, Eire's prime minister for 16 years, has lost his party majority in parliament but is expected to keep his job just the same.

His Fianna Fail (government party) won only 66 of the 147 seats in the new dail (parliament) in last Wednesday's general election, complete returns showed today.

The combined opposition, including parties that had sought a coalition government, won 76. The remaining five seats will be filled next Tuesday in a postponed election in Carlow and Kilkenny counties.

The government party had 77 of 138 deputies in the old parliament dissolved last fall.

The new dail meets Feb. 18 to elect a prime minister. Opponents and supporters agree De Valera stands a good chance of reelection by pulling the votes of some independent and National Labor party deputies. He needs 77 votes to win. Independents have 12, National Labor four.

Husbands Are Guests At Church Guild Supper

Husbands of the members were guests when the Women's Guild of the First Evangelical and Reformed church met Thursday night in the church parlors. A supper at 6:30 o'clock preceded a program and social hour.

Miss Martha Rayne, director of religious education, was present and Mrs. G. G. Nuetzel, program chairman, introduced E. L. Cleveland, who presided for a program given by the men.

A quartette composed of Ray Reidenbaugh, John Hoffman, Paul Griffith and Warren Augenstein, assisted by Mrs. Clarabelle Sinning, sang several numbers and Scripture was by Robert Fogle. Carl Haberman offered prayer. Warren Augenstein sang a solo and speaker for the evening was Robert Williams, who talked on his hobby, "Religious Symbols." The program closed with a song by the quartet and prayer by Mr. Williams.

The people of Malta became British subjects in 1813.

1948 Ashley Fair Set for Aug. 4-7

Special to The Star

ASHLEY—At a meeting of the Ashley fair board at the Wornstaff library Tuesday, it was decided to hold the annual Ashley Fair, Aug. 4 to 7. Wednesday, J. W. Henry, the secretary, and Delbert Ashbrook Sr. visited the department of agriculture in the state office building in Columbus and had the dates confirmed. No other fair dates conflict with this one.

The board is desirous that all get behind this movement and strive for a better and bigger fair than ever. The Ashley Junior Fair is a feature, taking the thought of young people all over the county.

ALL-DAY QUILTING HELD

Mrs Fred Upton and Mrs. Harry Green were guests at an all-day quilting held by Circle No. 2 of the W. S. C. S. of Epworth Methodist church Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Charles Clark on Avondale avenue. Lunch was followed by a short business session. Mrs. Upton gave the scripture and prayer.
